

New City Hall

This architect's drawing of the new City Hall proposed for Sedalia can become a reality within the next two years, if Sedalia residents vote in favor of the project in an election tentatively set for Sept. 14. The facilities, which will be built with sales tax revenue without an additional burden to the taxpayer, will feature brick and rock construction, a mall area east of the building and a seal of the City of Sedalia above the entrance.

Outlines Legal Basis

The letter from the attorney states in part:

"You have asked us whether or not we believe that sales tax revenues derived by the City of Sedalia, Missouri may be used to pay the principal and interest on general obligation bonds issued for the purpose of building a city hall.

"While we find no express provisions relating to this matter in the statutes, we believe that such use is justified.

"The statute authorizing the City to impose a sales tax after an election does not limit the purposes for which the tax may be used. Consequently, it appears to us that the tax would go into the general funds and would be available for any proper municipal purpose. We believe such purpose would include paying the principal and interest on general obligation bonds.

"We have tried to be as forward looking as possible," Jones said. He added, "I think the big percentage of the people have confidence in the council."

The building and grounds committee is composed of three council members, Martin Biggs, chairman, Second Ward; Carl Franklin, Third Ward; and Leo Letourneau, Fourth Ward.

Plans revealed by the committee provide that the new city hall be located in the same block as the present city hall, just west of the current structure.

Opinion Was Asked

Jones said that an opinion ballot presented to Sedalians two years ago indicated that most people preferred to have the city hall located in the downtown area, rather than on sites proposed in other parts of the city. The other locations presented on the ballot were the old Broadway School location in the 300 block of West Broadway and the old Safeway Store lot in the 400 block of South Kentucky.

According to Jones, the first thoughts of the buildings and grounds committee were to either lease or rent property for city hall operations while the existing building was torn down and replaced with a new structure. That proposal was quickly dropped by the committee, Jones said, because of the expense entailed in either leasing or renting during the estimated 14

CWA's Strike Is Felt Locally

Switchboards at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s Sedalia facilities were being manned, literally, Wednesday despite a five-state strike against Western Electric Co. by members of the Communication Workers of America (CWA).

Robert Johnson, manager of the telephone company's offices here, said that local and customer-dialed long distance calls are going through "pretty much as usual," and that his firm is "doing everything possible to see that the public continues to receive good telephone service."

Supervisory and management personnel, in many cases men, are being used to replace operators and other employees on strike in as many instances as possible, according to Johnson.

The strike, which went into effect at 5 a.m. Wednesday, was officially launched by the CWA against Western Electric, which makes and installs equipment for Bell. Western Electric is owned by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., (AT & T).

According to Johnson, picket lines were set up at both the Sedalia office at Fifth and Massachusetts and the telephone company garage on Industrial Drive because CWA employees are in the process of installing equipment at the Sedalia plant. Normally, he said, CWA personnel do not use Sedalia as a "home base," but because they were installing equipment "they felt they had the right" to strike.

Johnson said about 65 operators, 10 office personnel and 25 installation, repair and construction workers refused to cross picket lines established by the CWA.

He said that employees at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s plant in Marshall were working as usual, since the CWA does not have any work going on there. Both CWA and local employees are walking the picket lines at the two Sedalia locations, Johnson said.

Union spokesmen said pickets had been posted at nearly all Bell, AT & T and Western Electric facilities, except vital Western Electric installer Wayne Johnson, 2 Harlan Drive, began picketing the Sedalia office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. at 5 a.m. Wednesday. He is among half a million employees striking the Bell system.

Want New Head Start Home

Smith-Cotton Code Maintained

By KEITH A. OWEN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

In two crucial public relations matters, the Sedalia School Board decided Tuesday evening to maintain last year's dress code at Smith-Cotton High School and to take steps which may end with the local Head Start program moving from its present facilities in Hubbard School.

In a five-to-one vote, the board decided to uphold its earlier decision restricting S-C students' hair length and dress. George Thompson, board president, cast the only dissenting vote. Thompson clarified his vote, saying that in his opinion Principal Earl Finley should have the power to change or implement the code without checking with the board.

Acting on a report from Mrs. Dorothy Kitchen, Hubbard principal, the board decided to write local administrators of the federally-funded Head Start program, currently operating out of Hubbard School.

Because the program is in no way connected with the school system, neither the board nor any other Sedalia school official has the power to determine how it will be run.

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, explained to the board how federal guidelines on operating Head Start conflict with methods currently used in operating Sedalia schools. Norris particularly cited differences in how children are disciplined, explaining that Head Start children are given a great deal of freedom while attending the 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. sessions.

Board member Dr. Chester A. Kirkpatrick pointed out that his inspection of the situation indicated problems of disciplining school children are increased because of the influence of Head Start participants.

Norris said Wednesday that loudness and lack of discipline by Head Start pupils at Hubbard was interfering with other classrooms at the school. He said one of the reasons for this is the Head Start theory that the program is primarily a "socialization" experience for the youngsters, in which discipline is not stressed.

The board decided to advise Head Start authorities that adherence to normal school rules will be necessary if the program is to continue at Hubbard when school resumes in September. One reason for early correspondence cited by Norris was to allow the program to seek other facilities if desired.

Dr. Norris pointed out that the 1971 report on Title I programs in Missouri had

Ky Kicks Off Campaign

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky kicked off his campaign to replace President Nguyen Van Thieu with an open letter today accusing Thieu of wholesale reneging on campaign promises, dictatorial practices and trying to rig the coming election.

Ky said he was dissociating himself from Thieu, making official a split that has been apparent for months, and would run against him in the Oct. 3 election.

There was no immediate comment from the Presidential Palace.

With a lull continuing in the war, Ky's letter shifted attention to politics.

The vice president said he was Thieu's running mate four years ago because he wanted to inspire the people and the army "by this expression of unity at the leadership level."

"I had then no other hope than to see you achieve the national objectives which you had defined yourself," Ky continued.

"However, none of those objectives has been attained today."

Ky said those "unfulfilled promises" were responsible for a state of "stagnation and of regression which has weakened the efforts of this nation in its fight against Communism."

"Moreover, because of your excessive attachment to power, you have indulged in dictatorial practices—preferring the flatteries of sycophants over the advice of honest counsels. This is the reason why my voice has not been heard. This is the reason why unconstitutional, illegal and repressive actions have continually developed."

Ky said he had decided to run for the presidency to bring "appropriate reparation to the mistakes which have been made during the past four years, and to respond to the expectations of the people and the army."

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court ruled constitutional the amendment to the electoral law which Thieu sponsored to restrict the number of presidential candidates drastically. Ky in his letter said the amendment violates the constitution and Thieu four years ago had "ardently opposed" just such restrictions.

"As the country prepares itself for the election," Ky wrote Thieu, "you now silence the opposition and muzzle the press. Furthermore, you apply pressure on members of the Congress, of the municipal and provincial councils to prevent them from sponsoring the candidates who you fear. Indeed, I know of no instances when arbitrary acts have been committed in such blatant fashion, and I can only conclude that those acts constitute undeniable indications of dishonesty in the coming elections."

National law requires endorsing signatures from 40 National Assemblymen or 100 province councillors

Nationwide Strike Against Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bell System was struck by up to 500,000 telephone workers today as phone companies kept service going but prepared to halt repair service and installations.

Supervisory personnel filled in at switchboards after members of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America walked out at 6 a.m. EDT.

A union spokesman said the virtually nationwide walkout would last at least two weeks because of complicated labor ratification procedures.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said it was too early to determine the effects.

"But people can expect to hear a lot of male voices when calling the operator," said information officer Chuck Dynes.

Because telephones are so highly automated, most calls will continue to go through until lack of maintenance causes breakdowns.

In strike-affected areas many new telephone installations were halted, as was repair service on all but government-operated telephones essential for national security.

The strike by the CWA and allied unions is over wages and fringe issues, including the CWA's demand for an agency shop and the company's alleged "antifeminist" job policies.

Last May 23, the union rejected a three-year wage and benefit package the company said amounted to a 30-per-cent increase, including a 17-per-cent boost in wages alone. Current pay ranges from tops of $118 for operators to $193 for craftsmen.

Bell's parent company, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., said Tuesday it had a new offer. Terms were not released, but in a statement the C & P Telephone Co. of Washington said it was presenting a pact for consideration "totaling more than 30 per cent in wages and fringes" over three years.

A C & P spokesman said the offer provided for a 16-per-cent boost in the first year, but he did not give full details.

Two and a half hours after AT&T announced it had a new offer, Joseph A. Beirne, CWA president, dismissed it as a scandalous public-relations trick.

Wildcat strikes spread from Virginia to California even as he spoke.

Pacific Telephone Co. said 2,500 workers were off the job early Tuesday night in San Francisco and East San Francisco Bay communities.

In Miami, an AT&T spokesman said, striking telephone company employees walked off the job and cut cables, knocking out some circuits that were repaired later by supervisors.

Some 200 CWA members in Middletown, Ohio, went off the job early: "tired of waiting," they said, for the morning deadline.

At Nashville's Western Electric plant, an arm of the Bell system, all 70 workers walked off the job just before midnight in protest of the suspension of 12 workers the company said had slowed production. The plant was forced to close.

Beirne said the strike would last at least two weeks because it can only be stopped, under new union by-laws, by a mail referendum of the entire union membership. Each member must receive a printed copy of the contract proposal by mail.

The union said the strike at first would idle 400,000 CWA members and 100,000 members of other unions expected to observe picket lines. Beirne said independent telephone unions in Connecticut and Pennsylvania would strike with the CWA.

In New Jersey, Local 827 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers called an unexpected strike of its 11,000 members against Bell. Strike votes had been cast, but the national IBEW had said no plans were afoot for a walkout.

Ground Floor Drawings

This architect's conception of the ground floor of the proposed new City Hall shows the way in which the police department and jail, council chambers, city clerk's and city collector's offices, meter department, and garage and meter repair facilities would be located. The building is easily accessible, with an entrance located on each side of the structure.

Second Story

The upper level of the proposed City Hall would, according to architect's drawings, house offices for the mayor, industrial development director, department of public works, civil defense and counselor on problem drinking, and the license, building and milk inspectors.

A conference room and secretarial facilities are also included. With the exception of the council chambers, which is designed as a one-story section, the second floor would cover the entire building.

Ann Landers

'There' Now Gives Warning to Women

Dear Ann Landers: Some women who write to you sign themselves, "Been There." Well — I'm "There Now" so please print my letter for the benefit of other 22-year-old dumbbells who think a man 20 years older is real groovy.

When I was 22 I was the same kind of a nut. The fellows my own age seemed juvenile. I shopped around for a mature, settled type. In fact I shopped around so good that by the time I was 27 I was pretty shopworn myself. Finally I decided to pass up a younger guy who wanted to marry me and I eloped with a man who was 20 years my senior. Now, ten years later, what do I have? A 57-year-old slob whose idea of a good time is to watch the ten o'clock news and fall asleep in front of the TV with a can of beer in his lap. If I put my arms around him he thinks I'm some kind of a sex maniac.

I hope you 22-year-old girls will look again at the 24-year-old fellows.

There's a lot to be said for growing old together. A woman of 37 is in her prime. A man at 57 is over the hill. — Prisoner.

Dear Prisoner: Not always.

Some men are over the hill at 37. It depends on the man — and the hill.

Dear Ann Landers: My chances of seeing this in the paper are one in a thousand, but I can't risk your answer coming to the house. My husband wouldn't be able to understand why I asked.

I know that penicillin is the standard cure for V. D. Almost everyone in my family is allergic to penicillin. My small children are going to grow up some day. In 10 years they will be 15 and 16. If they should get V.D. and are allergic to penicillin, what would they do? — W.J.

Dear W. J.: There are a number of other antibiotics that could be used. But rather than worry about a cure, it seems to me a better approach would be for a mother to give her children the proper information so they will know how to protect themselves against V.D.

Dear Ann Landers: I know for a fact that young people listen to you before they listen to their own mothers. Please, say something to brides in regard to thank-you notes for wedding presents.

I am holding in my hand a note which has no salutation of any kind. It could be meant for anybody. Here it is:

"Thanks for the silver tray. We are very busy now getting settled. Ellen and Ralph."

I spent half a day shopping for that gift. It was not just a trinket, either in terms of time or money spent. When I received this nothing little note, I was mad at myself for having bothered at all. I hope you will print this letter so the girls who scribble little two-sentence thank-you letters will see it and learn something. — Disgusted.

Dear D.: Some girls are unable to write a gracious note because they lack the training and experience. I feel sorry for them because they will be handicapped by this ineptness all their lives.

The only girls who are worse off are the clods who don't acknowledge gifts at all — and I can tell you, their name is legion.

Victim of Burns To Be Transferred

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Christine Mills, the 15-year-old, Shawnee, Kan., girl who received third degree burns over 75 per cent of her body last Thursday, was to be flown to the Shriners Burn Institute in Galveston, Tex., today, a University of Kansas Medical Center spokesman said.

The transfer originally had been scheduled Monday, but hospital officials postponed it until the girl's condition improved.

Barbara Schade, 15, of Shawnee, who suffered third degree burns over 35 per cent of her body in the same flash fire that injured Miss Mills last Thursday, is reported in fair condition at the medical center.

In 1970 the New York City Police Department cited 5,989 persons for jaywalking. The fine is $2.

Express Severance Opposition

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Opposing views on a proposed 2 per cent severance tax on natural gas were expressed Tuesday to the Special Joint Assessment and Taxation Committee of the Kansas Legislature.

The tax passed the Kansas House during the 1971 session, but was tied up in the Senate Assessment and Taxation Committee and held over for study until 1972.

Rep. Austin Nothorn, R-Topeka, chief sponsor of the bill, reiterated his contention the state's oil and gas industry can afford to pay the tax.

"The period of gravity may be diminishing," he said, "but the income tax returns of the oil and gas companies would indicate it is not a distressed industry."

Nothorn has estimated a 2 per cent severance tax on natural gas only would yield between $2.1 and $2.6 million a year.

Brian Whithead of the United Transportation Union and Mrs.

Ruth Wilkin of the Kansas League of Women Voters supported the tax.

"It's never too late to right a wrong," Mrs. Wilkins said.

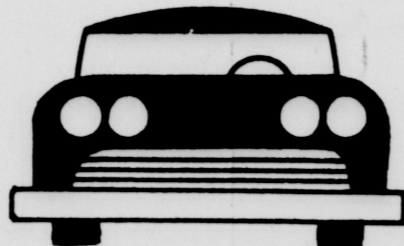

She argued that the oil and gas industry should have been paying the tax long ago.

Lester Wilkinson, a petroleum engineer and consultant to the Kansas Corporation Commission, said oil reserves in the state are being depleted.

Federal Loan Guarantee Empowered By Committee

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee has approved a bill empowering a three-man board to dole out up to $2 billion in federal loan guarantees to ailing industrial giants considered vital to the economy.

But questions arose Tuesday whether the bill could be passed in time to help Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the administration's first concern, or whether Lockheed could even qualify under the new legislation.

The committee vote was 10 to 5, with two Democrats and three Republicans opposing the White House-endorsed measure. Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, ranking committee Democrat who has threatened repeatedly to filibuster any Lockheed aid proposal, said he will oppose the committee bill on grounds "it would set a dangerously bad precedent for our economy if the authority is ever used."

Proxmire said the three-man board's composition, changed during two days of closed committee sessions, casts doubt on whether Lockheed would qualify for the $250-million loan backing it says is needed to avoid going broke and putting 31,000 people out of work, possibly by September.

Lockheed has blamed its troubles on collapse of Rolls-Royce Ltd., British maker of the engines for Lockheed's TriStar Airbus on which the nation's top defense contractor is pinning its hopes to reduce dependence on government work. Proxmire's claim was disputed by Sens. John Sparkman, D-Ala., committee chairman, and John Tower of Texas, ranking Republican, who said nothing in the bill would exclude Lockheed.

The original bill would have given President Nixon outright control of two members of a board composed of the Treasury secretary as chairman, the Commerce secretary and the Federal Reserve Board chairman.

But the committee approved an amendment by Sen. William Roth, R-Del., replacing the Commerce secretary with the president of the Federal Reserve district in which an ailing applicant is located.

Proxmire said giving the independent Fed majority control assures "objective appraisal of the Lockheed loan guarantee."

Under the bill, the board could guarantee up to $250 million in private loans to a single company. But the House and Senate would be given 20 days' notice, and either could veto it.

Discuss Migrant Education

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A discussion of the federal summer migrant education program was held at the State Department of Education Tuesday in the wake of the request of Manuel D. Fierro for an investigation of the administration of the program.

Fierro, director of the Kansas Human Needs Corp., has charged the education department approved inadequate programs for migrant children, cheating them of a good education while spending about $430,000 in federal funds.

Ken Gentry, state director of the federal education programs, told Fierro Tuesday that the state would welcome a federal investigation.

Among those attending the discussion were federal and state education officials and representatives from the Topeka Human Relations Commission.

Gentry said the education department has representatives visiting the 10 summer schools daily.

"We don't feel that we're that off-base," he said.

Gentry reported three or four of the 10 projects may not operate next year.

"Looking at all 10 applications, I think they're very inadequate," Fierro said.

Republicans Are Beating For Funds

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Republican volunteers in nearly every community in Kansas will canvass their neighborhoods for contributions of a dollar or more on "Buck Night" in September.

Party leaders said Tuesday the fund-raising plan has proved quite successful in other states.

All voters, not just Republicans, will be called on in the hours from 6 to 8 p.m. on Sept. 14.

State Chairman Bill Falstad and his finance chairman, Ralph Hixon, appointed Mrs. Gerald L. Mowry of Manhattan as chairman of Buck Night.

She is campaign chairman of the Kansas Federation of Republican Women and is Riley County Republican chairman. She is the wife of a Manhattan physician, and mother of four.

Mrs. Mowry said meetings will be held over the state to prepare for the drive.

"The purpose is to maintain and improve Republican contacts with the citizens of the state, as well as allowing Republican party workers an opportunity to actively participate in party affairs," said a state headquarters announcement.

"The program is also expected to build the GOP structure and disclose weaknesses in party organization. Another primary product is needed financial aid to the party."

Sales Tax Operation Criticized

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor Christopher (Kit) Bond criticized operations in the sales tax division of the Department of Revenue today. He said the state lost almost $7.5 million in 1969-70 in failing to collect sales tax from retailers.

"Our examination revealed numerous deficiencies in internal management of sales tax records, a failure to use all available enforcement measures and inconsistencies in accounting of sales tax," Bond said.

He said numerous businesses in Missouri are evading the sales tax liability. "By expanding our tests and use of accepted statistical sampling methods, we have computed the possible losses of revenue to the state from retailers who have not filed for a retail sales license for fiscal year 1969-70 at $7,536,224 and for the fiscal year 1968-69 at $6,303,584."

The report also criticized existing collection and delinquency procedures because they do not follow sound business practices. Internal control of files and money is weak, the report said, and no procedures exist to determine whether a retailer has a sales tax number and is paying the tax.

Bond's report also noted failings on the part of the treasurer and state comptroller for not reporting the revenue derived from the sales tax.

Revenue reported by the sales tax division through March 1971 for the fiscal year 1970-71 totaled $240,372,489, Bond said. The treasurer and comptroller reported revenue for this period at $233,841,990—a difference of $6.5 million.

"Due to the improper reporting procedures, sales tax revenues are being understated some months and overstated other months by the treasurer and comptroller."

"An accurate reporting is not available to the financial planners of the state because of fluctuating revenues."

The report which covers Jan. 1, 1968 to March 25, 1971 includes about 30 recommendations for improved operations of the division.

military installations. According to union officials, there are 21,000 non-management workers in Missouri, about 5,200 in Kansas and more than 5,000 in each of Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa.

Local personnel, although honoring CWA picket lines, appeared more interested in negotiations between Southwestern Bell and their own union, than in the dispute between the CWA and Western Electric, according to Johnson.

The contract which local telephone employees are working under expires Sunday. Johnson said negotiations between Southwestern Bell and its employees seem to be progressing without difficulty.

In the meantime, Johnson said customers could continue to get good service and speed their calls through if they will dial their own local and long distance calls, look up numbers in their directories rather than call a directory assistance operator, and delay installation requests until the work stoppage is over.

Conditions Returning To Normal

Things seem to be returning to normal along a mile-long stretch of Flat Creek where a July 2 gasoline leak from a Phillips Petroleum Co. pipeline killed an estimated 36,000 fish.

Clyde Myers, Florence, maintenance foreman for the pipeline company, told The Democrat-Capital Tuesday evening that water above the leak, dammed up since July 2, was allowed to flow again Tuesday. Water that had been channeled into a backwater slough was also released Tuesday.

"As far as we're concerned, the creek is cleared up," Myers said.

"Fish have survived beyond the 24-hour limit in the water," he added.

According to Myers, approximately 30,000 gallons of mixed gasoline and water have been taken from the creek.

Larry Belusz, biologist for the Department of Conservation, expressed opinions much along the same lines.

He said the creek has lost "only a handful" of fish in the last few days.

According to Belusz, bulldozers were used to construct dikes in the waterway, rechanneling the water away from gasoline-soaked banks.

A good portion of the section of Flat Creek affected by the spill has been dried up through use of earthen dams, thereby allowing sunlight and air to detoxify the bottom.

Myers said that the dams, about three-fourths of a mile downstream from the leak, were broken Wednesday, restoring the regular flow of water in the creek.

Withdrawal Reluctance Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — Former White House adviser Walt Rostow says President John F. Kennedy told him late in 1961 that an American withdrawal from Vietnam would not bring peace but lead to a larger and possibly nuclear war.

Rostow, who was also an adviser in the Johnson administration and is now a member of the University of Texas faculty, commented Tuesday on the CBS television program: "The Pentagon Papers: What They Mean."

He said Kennedy "understood deeply, all the way down to the flattest statement ever made of the 'domino theory,' why Southeast Asia and its preservation as an independent area was vital to the American interest, including something which is often forgotten: its relationship to the Indian subcontinent, through Burma."

Rostow defended Johnson, saying he did not attempt to deceive the American people "and what went on in 1964 was contingency planning."

He referred to newspaper stories, based on the papers, that said the Johnson administration reached a consensus before the 1964 election that the bombing of North Vietnam would have to begin the following year.

Daniel Ellsberg, who gave copies of the classified Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam to the press, said on the ABC-TV Dick Cavett Show that it was "very misleading" to conclude that Johnson deceived the voters during the 1964 campaign.

"What Johnson said was, 'I'm not going to send American boys now' or, 'I'm not going to send American boys until they're needed,'" Ellsberg said. "So President Johnson may have been giving us some clues back then."

Ellsberg also said that Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security affairs adviser, was wrong in saying he was unaware of the existence of the Pentagon study until he read it in The New York Times.

Chemical Problem Closes Local Pool

Liberty Park Swimming Pool was closed Tuesday and Wednesday due to a malfunction in the pool's chemical system. According to Jack Coutts, park director, the malfunction is believed to be due to the amount of iron or the "hardness" of Sedalia's water. Coutts said that the Sedalia Water Department is currently working on the problem and he hopes to have the pool ready for operation Thursday.

He said that students enrolled in the Red Cross swimming lessons should check with Red Cross officials for information on lessons.

Sedalia police were notified at 3:17 p.m. Tuesday that the concession stand near the Little League ball diamond in Hubbard Park had been broken into sometime Monday evening. Officers investigating at the scene said entry to the building was not gained, but a board was pried off a window. Richard Vansel, Little League president, was notified, but was unable to determine if anything was missing.

Sedalia firemen were called to 11th and Grand at 4:48 p.m. Tuesday to extinguish a fire in a 1966 Ford owned by Randy Rowden, 3202 South Ohio. The cause of the fire was attributed to be a backfire through the carburetor. Slight damage was reported to the vehicle.

Sheriff's Report

Two apparently unrelated incidents of theft have been reported to Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax by area farmers.

Martin Doogs, Route 1, reported a box of tools and an umbrella were stolen from his tractor Monday night, while it was parked in a field on his farm.

Marvin Shull, Route 1, Hughesville, said that a box of tools was stolen from his combine and the gas was drained from the machine while it was parked Monday night in a field on his farm north of Longwood.

Sheriff Fairfax said there is no apparent connection between the thefts, as incidents like this are common during harvesting season when machines are left in fields overnight.

Magistrate Court

Thomas Glenn Tolivar, 23, Cole Camp, was arraigned in Magistrate Court Wednesday before Judge Frank Armstrong on charges of passing a forged check for $25 June 24 at Hurt Pharmacy, 504 West 16th.

Also in Magistrate Court, bond was set at $1,000 for Ronnie Eugene Mittenburg, also charged with passing a forged check. Mittenburg is currently being held in the Benton County Jail on charges of stealing fowl at night, a felony in Missouri. His Pettis County charge stems from a check passed June 23 at the Clark Service Station, 216 West Broadway.

City Hall Plan

months it will take to construct the new facilities.

The 25,672 square-foot city hall, designed by Sammons and Buller Architects, is a two-story brick and rock structure, which features large first and second story windows for natural, interior lighting, a mall area and a large seal of the City of Sedalia above the main entrance.

Would Meet Needs

Jones said he thought the proposed structure would meet the needs of Sedalia residents in several ways. First, it is located in the downtown area, where most people feel the city hall should be; second, it has been designed to provide for future expansion, a necessity as the city grows; and third, it can be constructed without added tax dollars being levied against Sedalians.

The main entrance would be on the east side of the building, facing what is now the current city hall. The building itself would occupy the land between Second Street and the alley in the 200 block of Kentucky, on the east side of Kentucky. A mall area would be placed on east side of the new building, where the current city hall is located.

Jones said he thought the mall would enhance the appearance of the structure, as well as help beautify the downtown section of Sedalia. "I'd hate to take a building like this and set it in the middle of a lot of blacktop," he said.

Parking spaces for the public would be provided on the southern edge of the mall, while police parking would be provided at the rear of city hall. City employees would park on the lot at the corner of Second and Osage Streets.

New Jail Concept

Hopefully, the construction of the new City Hall will also allow Sedalians to get rid of their rapidly deteriorating city jail, it was indicated. Jones said the city and county have been negotiating for some time on the possibility of housing city prisoners in the Pettis County Jail.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said that a member of the Law Enforcement Assistance Council in Jefferson City has been working on figures to determine exactly what it would cost to house a city prisoner in the county jail. He said that when those figures are ready, they will be presented to the county court and the City Council.

According to the building and grounds committee, persons in jail awaiting trial in municipal court rarely have to wait more than a day to come to trial. For these persons, temporary holding cells for both male and female prisoners, together with a "drunk tank" will be provided in the police department of the new City Hall. Prisoners sentenced by the municipal court to jail for a specific length of time would be housed in the county jail, according to Jones.

Other offices to be located on the second floor are the department of public works and its director; the license, building and milk inspectors, all of whom would be served by the secretary located on the south side of the second floor; civil defense, and the counselor on problem drinking. One spare office is included on the second decision to grant the request of Mrs. Emmett Fairfax. Insurance on the building is to be checked out in the near future, also.

A bid from Allied Theater Crafts, Inc. for $378 for a new stage curtain lining was accepted by the board. Other bids were from R and R Draperies, $736.84, and Great Western Stage Equipment, $614.

A $1,107.68 bid for a steam-jacketed kettle for the Smith-Cotton cafeteria was granted to Fehr-Zanher of Kansas City. Bids of $1,266 from Ken Orr Supply, $1,174.36 from Greenwoods and $1,448 from Smith St. John, both of Kansas City, were rejected.

A lone bid on window shades of $914.95 was granted Callies Furniture. In all, 162 shades are involved.

S&M sporting goods was the low bidder on soccer equipment for the coming season. The bid accepted was $382.05, compared to Kansas City Gateway's bid of $403.84.

The following bids were also taken on cleaning school typewriters: Wise, $17.50 and $20 apiece manual machine and $32.50 per electric; Sedalia Typewriter, $30 per electric and $15 per manual (Royal machines only); IBM, $15 per electric (IBM machines only), and Mac and Jack Office Equipment Co., $12.50 per electric and $8.50 per manual. It was decided to award the contract for cleaning the IBM typewriters to that company, and the rest of the machines to Mac and Jack.

At the request of the High Point School District, the board voted to accept High Point as a part of District 200.

In financial action, the board voted to approve an adjusted 1971-72 budget, based on the balance as of July 1, and to raise the summer driver education teachers' salaries. Dr. Norris explained that a higher than anticipated number of students in the summer session has resulted in the instructors having to work overtime.

The board also voted to renew membership in the Missouri School Board Association; accept the resignations of Shirley Lathrop, Lorraine Cross, Sophia Crosslin, Mrs. J. E. Mitchell and Joan Keiter; and approve the 1971-72 school calendar.

if negotiations between the county and city prove productive.

Besides the police department and jail, the ground floor of the new building would house the city clerk's and city collector's offices, the parking meter department, space for meter repairs, a city vehicle garage and council chambers.

Spacious Council Chambers

The council chambers, which could seat about 100 spectators, would be open to various public meetings, Jones said. At present most public meetings are held at the Pettis County courthouse because of the poor condition of the existing council chambers.

Drawings presented by the architects do not provide for partitioning in either the police department or the city clerk's and city collector's offices. According to the building and grounds committee, those sections of the building would be partitioned off later, depending on how department heads felt it could be done most effectively.

An elevator would be provided for the public, according to the plans, immediately behind the main staircase leading from the main floor lobby to the second story. Two other staircases are designed into the building to meet fire protection standards. Public restrooms are provided on both floors. Entrance to the building is easily obtained by one of four entrances, one on each side of the structure.

The small area immediately behind the elevator, shown on both the ground and second story floor plans on Page 2A, will house air conditioning and heating ducts for the building. The mechanical plant for the heating and cooling systems would be located in a partial basement.

With the exception of the council chambers, a second story would cover the entire ground floor. The main lobby area would be open all the way to the roof of the building.

Both the mayor's office and industrial development director's office would be located on the second floor. Although architects' plans call for a secretary and waiting area for each office, Jones said that he thought both offices could be adequately served by one secretary.

Provide Conference Room

A conference room provided on the second floor would also help alleviate crowded conditions at the present city hall. Currently, as

'Pusher' Program Works

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A "Turn in a Pusher" program has attracted 2,930 calls from tipsters since it began operating less than six months ago.

Informers remain anonymous and are paid for tips that lead to conviction of drug pushers.

The Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce and businesses which contributed funds began the TIP bounty system for this city of 318,000 in February.

James Cusack, a former FBI agent who developed the idea and is director of the program, says 37 persons have been arrested and three convicted as a result of TIP information. In addition, police say they are watching 262 suspects named by informants.

Informants call their tips into a secret office manned by civilians and get from $100 to $500 in cash for information that leads to a conviction.

Strict anonymity is enforced. The callers are warned not to give their names and are assigned a code name instead.

A total of $1,000 has been paid to four persons. The amounts are set by a TIP committee, which considers the extent of a pusher's activities and the age group he was dealing with.

Once a pusher is convicted, the reward money awaits another call from the code-named informant.

Cash is placed in an envelope, Cusack said in an interview, and "we make arrangements for the delivery. We don't want to know who the informant is. We'll make a drop or leave it at a general delivery or something like that. People are interested in that type of thing—code names, secret drops. There's a little 'I Spy' in all of us."

Sponsoring businesses have contributed $7,900 for rewards.

Information received from a tipster goes directly to Tampa police or the Hillsborough County sheriff's department.

"People are great," Cusack said. "It's amazing what people will do for a small count of money. Some cops even believe mothers will turn in their kids for the right price."

Carbon Monoxide Fumes Can Harm Brain Cells

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — Is it possible for a person to get epilepsy from a bad case of carbon monoxide poisoning? There were never any signs of epilepsy until after the poisoning.

Dear Reader — In a word, yes. One might argue about the meaning of the word epilepsy but to the extent that it means convulsive episodes like those seen in epilepsy, it is true.

Any form of brain damage can cause recurrent convulsive episodes. Carbon monoxide can cause brain damage by interfering with adequate delivery of oxygen to the brain. Carbon monoxide combines with the iron pigment, hemoglobin, in the red blood cells, and makes it impossible for the cells to carry oxygen.

The brain is the organ in the body most easily damaged by lack of oxygen. If the brain is damaged a person's threshold to have convulsions may be lowered and then the convulsions start occurring. There may be, and usually are, other manifestations of brain damage. In its most severe form the individual may be incapable of normal thought process.

There are other ways the brain can be damaged to cause convulsive episodes. Loss of oxygen, during high altitude flights, is one example. A more common cause is inadequate circulation to the brain. A person may have a sudden irregularity of the heart or it may stop beating. If some means is not quickly devised to restore the heart's pumping capacity the brain may be damaged.

We see this in people with "heart attacks." The pumping action of the heart must be restored within four minutes to prevent brain damage. External artificial heart massage is often life saving in such situations. By compressing the chest in a rhythmic manner (pressing down on the sternum, breast bone) the heart is artificially compressed and then relaxes. This may force enough blood to the brain and other vital organs to prevent serious damage. If the equipment is immediately available the normal pumping action of the heart may be restored by electrical means.

The real problem is the ever-present possibility that the replacement of the circulation will be too late and the brain may be permanently damaged. The patient may live but the end result may still be a major tragedy. These events provide some very dramatic moments, not only a race against death, but a race to save a life worth living. The same is true of loss of oxygen or poisoning that prevents delivery of oxygen to the brain.

Many people think all they have to fear from heart attacks or strokes is death. There is always that other possibility, permanent incapacity and brain damage.

More Families Participate in Program

Taking Tips On Cooking

Budgeting and cooking meals for a family of nine is a challenge to Mrs. Louise Herndon, left, 109 East Lima Alley. After learning some fundamental principles of nutrition and grocery buying from Mrs. Haristine Draffen, nutrition assistant with the Pettis County Expanded Food and Nutrition Program, she feels more confident about cooking. "I've learned quite a bit about a well-balanced meal... I even brought up my own ideas on cooking some dishes," Mrs. Herndon said. The program which is a joint venture of State Fair Community College and the University of Missouri Extension Center. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

By ROBERT H. TARBELL
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

Since its inception eight months ago the Expanded Food and Nutrition Program, a cooperative venture of State Fair Community College and the University of Missouri Extension Center, has shown significant progress.

The program, with headquarters in the Federal Building, Fourth and Osage, is operated throughout Sedalia and Pettis County on a door-to-door basis. Since starting last November, the number of families taking advantage of it has tripled. In its first month of operation, 52 families were being counseled and by May 163 families were learning the essentials of good nutritional practices.

The program is run by Mrs. Linda Reed, Green Ridge, home economist, and four nutrition assistants. Those currently working in the program are Mrs. Haristine Draffen, 209 East Jackson; Mrs. Naomi Russell, 234 South Moniteau; Mrs. Madeline M. Mullin, Route 5; and Mrs. Myrtle Griggs, 421 West Pettis.

The program, according to Mrs. Reed is expected to continue at its present level until next year. She said there had been no increase in funds to hire additional nutrition assistants.

One of the assistants, Mrs. Draffen, said that her duties take her to one section of Sedalia and one section of Pettis County. The city and the county are divided up in four quarters, one for each assistant. She visits her portion of the city four days a week and travels to her section of the county on Thursdays.

Mrs. Draffen said that the assistants make their calls on homes on the basis of inquiries from families and referrals from welfare agencies.

Each of the assistants receives 56 hours of instruction given at Warrensburg by University of Missouri Extension officials. According to Mrs. Reed, the assistants also received eight hours a week extra training following the course.

Mrs. Reed said that the job of the assistants is to outline the proper way of selecting, combining, preparing and storing foods. In a more specific sense, this means that families participating in the program learn how to stretch their food dollars just a bit further than they could otherwise.

"After all the work we have put into the program, I can say that 85 per cent of the persons talked to did not know how to most properly use the food they had available," Mrs. Draffen said. For example, one family of nine was paying about $200 a month for food and was able to cut its bill in half because of the program, she said.

Of the families participating in the program in June, Mrs. Reed said, 44 were black and 117 white. One of the biggest problems the program's directors had to overcome was convincing Sedalia and county residents it was not connected with welfare agencies.

The program was originally set up to help the poor in Sedalia and Pettis County who needed help in menu planning and on choosing the proper nutritional products to use. Mrs. Draffen, however, said that some families now being assisted had incomes up to about $5,000 or $6,000 a year.

Walkout Expected

KANSAS CITY (AP) — About 400 members of the Communications Workers of America Local No. 6391 in Kansas City were expected to strike the Bell telephone system today as part of a nationwide walkout.

The local represents Western Electric installers, whose contracts are the first to end.

Other Bell workers were expected to honor their picket lines.

A union spokesman said it is doubtful that all of the 10,000 Bell workers in metropolitan Kansas City would be affected immediately.

"We're doing everything in our power to take everybody out," said Ken Flanagan, the president of the local.

Hog Heaven

This must be hog heaven. A cool shower bath from overhead pipes and spray-nozzles keep these hogs comfortable at the Four Square Market at Marshall Junction, 18 miles north of Sedalia.

When summer temperatures soar the cold water shower provides relief. The Market is a joint operation of the MFA and the Farm Bureau Federation.

Girls Dig Into Male Labor Jobs

SILAM SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — The kind of pick-and-shovel, grimy-handed outdoor job that used to be known as "men's work" is being performed by a group of teenage girls this summer in the Mark Twain National Forest near their south central Missouri community.

The girls, decked out in the hard hats required for all workers in the heavily wooded area, put in six hours a day of manual labor and another two attending lectures as part of a work and study program at the U.S. Forest Service's only Youth Conservation Camp in the state. They're paid $38.50 a week, plus food and lodging.

Making some allowances for their ages — 15 to 18 — as well as their sex, their supervisors are impressed with the job they've been doing.

Naturally the transition to outdoorswoman isn't always completely smooth. "With these hard hats, I can't see and I keep running into trees," one participant reports. And others confess they're a little leery of snakes.

"We don't expect as much out of them as we would a bunch of boys, so we give them a lot of breaks," says District Ranger Bill Moriarity of the Willow Springs Ranger District. But he adds, "They surprised me with their spirit. They keep plugging at it."

The man who directs their camp, Paul Lundberg of the Forest Service, observes, "These girls are enthusiastic. At a boys' camp, the boys play it cool and say 'Don't volunteer for anything.' But here, they are really jumping in."

The program, authorized by Congress, provides for two summer sessions with 35 girls each. The first group completed its four-week stay last Sunday and the second began Monday.

The girls, who come from a wide variety of backgrounds and from as far away as Michigan, have plenty of duties: cleaning and maintaining two recreation areas, construction of a half-mile fisherman's trail, thinning trees, building bulletin boards, and staining picnic tables, parking barriers and recreation buildings.

Plans also call for a river-use survey and a stock survey of fish, both to be conducted by the girls.

A pretty tough regimen? Well, says Ann Gleason of Springfield, Mo., "I like the woods and I like the work."

"It is really doing something. We're helping the environment," adds Laura Arnold of St. Louis.

Others are quick to point out it isn't all work. Shirley Jacobs of Poplar Bluff, Mo., who says she came "since I needed to know more about conservation," adds, "You know, they didn't lie to us. They have something educational every day."

During the first session, speakers included Milton Thompson, superintendent of the Ozarks National Scenic Riverways; Ed Stegner, executive secretary of the Conservation Federation of Missouri; and other figures closely associated with conservation efforts in the area.

If the girls are happy with the arrangement, Lundberg is equally so.

"The girls can do things which need to be done, but which we lacked funds for this year," he says. "For us, this program is just like icing on the cake."

Ginger Snaps

By Ginger Moore

Have you ever paused to reflect on the many seemingly unnecessary manners which you were taught as a child? A recent conversation with friends led me to the conclusion that everyone has a mother, father, grandmother or maiden aunt who managed to frustrate your life with details of learning the social amenities.

Were you ever sent from the dinner table to wash the backs of your hands after already washing the palms? After all, only the palms touch the food. Or did you ever go through a week or so of having to 'dress' for dinner only to have your mother give up in despair from having to wash twice as much.

Dinner tables provided the scene for many social lessons. Can't you remember being told to "always keep one hand in your lap" and "Mable, Mable, strong and able, keep your elbows, off the table." The latter is a camp version of what parents say at home.

One colleague remembered he had been told not to speak at the table, however, often attacks of giggles would strike him and his sister and they would be banished to their bedrooms. Talking was alright in some homes, but I remember it was absolutely verboten to sing.

Setting the table always brought about more arguments as society decrees you must have at least two forks, one knife and a spoon in a place setting. Childish logic follows that if you don't need all that silverware why not leave it in the drawer and then you won't have so many dishes to wash (especially if you're the one washing dishes).

Did your mom ever give you the "clean your room today, the maid comes tomorrow" bit? Even an adult should be able to see the inequities in that. And besides, why shut a dresser drawer or put things away, you'll just have to get them out again sooner or later.

Since bed-making is usually a child's chore, did you ever think you had managed to avoid making your bed for the day only to have your mom insist you make your bed about an hour before bedtime? Ah, the injustice of it all.

And if you think these lessons stop with marriage and adulthood, you're wrong. Remember the first time your mother or mother-in-law dropped in just before dinner and was horrified to find the potato chips on the table in a bag instead of a bowl and the mustard, pickles, ketchup and applesauce all on the table in their jars? How uncouth!

Be honest now, with your children growing up don't you find yourself demanding the same manners and amenities?

Congratulations to the League of Women Voters on the completion of information soon to be published on "Who's in Charge Here?" A voters' guide, it explains the functions of Pettis County and Sedalia officials and will be available in the early fall for newly registered voters and others.

The guide has taken the combined efforts of a great number of people and when published will be an invaluable guide to the voting public. Copies will be available in many places. Be sure and watch for it.

The Missouri State Fair is coming up soon and this year many new attractions will delight the women. A sod house constructed as an exact replica of the late 1800's home will be furnished with wood cookstove, iron bedstead and many other items from that era.

An antique kitchen is also planned for the home economics building and daily cooking and sewing demonstrations will be given.

Plan to make two trips to the fair this year. One with your family and another alone or with a group of women. It's very difficult to see everything in one day.

Lemon Egg Salad and Cucumber Radish filling fit summer needs.

A Suggestion For Summer Sandwiches

Scandinavians have a special knack of fixing mouth-watering and attractive open-face sandwich fillings. A Lemon Egg Salad with Norwegian Sardines and a Cucumber Radish filling make very good summer spreads. They're refreshing but not too heavy when eaten for a light lunch or for snacks.

LEMON EGG SALAD WITH SARDINES

- 1 medium lemon
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 2 green onions, chopped
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- Pinch of cayenne pepper
- teaspoon salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1 can (3 3/4 ounce) sardines, packed in oil

Boil whole lemon in very salty water until tender, about 15 minutes, then cool. Cut in half, pull out pulp, finely mince peel. In a bowl combine peel with chopped eggs and onions. For dressing, mix thoroughly oil, vinegar, dry mustard, cayenne pepper, salt, pepper to taste; add to egg mixture. Spread on bread or crackers and top with drained sardines. Makes approximately 1 1/4 cups or filling for 4 sandwiches.

CUCUMBER RADISH FILLING

- 1 small cucumber, chopped
- 1 small bunch radishes, chopped
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 teaspoon dill weed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 can (3 3/4 ounce) sardines, packed in oil

Combine cucumber and radishes in a bowl. Mix mayonnaise with dill weed and lemon juice; add to cucumber-radish mixture. Spread on bread or crackers and top with drained sardines. Makes filling for 4 sandwiches.

Garden Club News

Outdoor settings for breakfasts and picnic luncheon provided the scene for the July garden club meetings and the topic "Let's Broaden Our Horizons." The lush gardens provided inspiration for the talks as the speakers discussed flowers and trees.

Business meetings included plans for the annual flower show Sept. 23 and Federation Day at the Missouri State Fair. On Sept. 7 a bi-annual meeting of the club council will be held to elect council officers for the coming year.

Garden Club No. 1 met Friday, at the home of Mrs. Florence Elliott, for a picnic on her patio. Six visitors were present, including Mrs. P. C. Owen, Garden Club Council president.

After the dinner, a short business meeting was held. There was a distribution of schedules and discussion concerning the 36th annual Flower Show to be held at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, on Sept. 23. The theme of the show is "Torch of Freedom."

Mrs. Earl Lugen reported on the nominating committee for officers for the Council of Garden Clubs, and there was a discussion concerning the entries for the Missouri State Fair.

Mrs. W. R. Suter was welcomed as a new member of Garden Club No. 5 at their meeting Friday in Liberty Park. A picnic luncheon preceded the meeting which included plans for the state fair and fall flower show.

Mrs. P. L. Strole was appointed chairman of the club's activities for the fair and Mrs. Elmer Van Dyke will represent the club at the July meeting of the junior garden club.

With the theme of the fall flower show as "Torch of Freedom," Club 5 will have an exhibit on Independence Day. Mrs. Ed Foris and Mrs. Fred Wertz will be in charge.

The group said goodbye to Mrs. Carl Wehrli who is moving to Moberly and Mrs. Alma Hausam was welcomed as a guest.

A breakfast meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Robert England by Garden Club No. 2. Assisting the hostess was Mrs. Red Lange.

Mrs. Lloyd Roe, president, presided. The following report was made by the nominating committee: Mrs. George Raouls, president; Mrs. Keith Springer, first vice president; Mrs. Hugh Janes, second vice president; Mrs. Pinkney Miller, third vice president; Mrs. Bryan Howe, recording secretary; Mrs. R. W. Horton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. L. Drake, treasurer; and Mrs. James Norlin, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Miller reported on plans for the annual flower show whose theme of "Torch of Freedom" will reflect the Missouri sesquicentennial. Mrs. E. C. Thompson reported on plans for the club's display at the state fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Zack Heady were hosts to the annual picnic of Garden Club No. 4 Friday evening.

Mrs. Floyd Knerl, president, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Walter Banning gave the invocation. Following the dinner a short business meeting was held.

Garden Club No. 7 met Friday at the Highway Gardens at the State Fair grounds. Mrs.

Paul Reed, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. George Chambers presented a poetic reading.

Members were encouraged to visit Liberty and Centennial Parks during the month.

Store Has Coupon But Not Product

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — One of my Pet Peeves is that so often I find a coupon in the newspaper offering money off on a certain item and then I cannot find the item in the store. I think every store in an area should carry such items, not just the big ones.

Also, I never seem to find a child's toothbrush, after the size for a 6-year-old, that does not fall down on the job after a month of use. Consequently I have been forced to buy an adult's size for a child. — M.A.S.

DEAR READERS — We have received so many Peeves about coupons and redeeming them which all seems a source of irritation to many of the girls. Phyllis wishes they would have an expiration date printed on ALL of them — some do and some do not — so the old unused ones could be discarded from time to time. Mrs. F.N. would much prefer having the manufacturers lower their prices and eliminate the cost of printing, handling and sometimes mailing these coupons. She says that if one needs and wants an item it is going to be bought with or without the coupon. And on and on they go. — POLLY.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — The boards in my hardwood floors are coming apart and I do not know what to do about them so I hope someone who knows will help me. — MRS. R. B.

DEAR POLLY — I made a poncho out of our plaid wool automobile robe and find it is used much more by everyone in the family. I washed it in that cold water liquid for woolens, dried it away from the heat, cut a 12-inch gash in the center and finished the edges by using yarn to crochet a double-chain stitch. — MRS. H. E. N.

DEAR POLLY — The easiest way I know to clean between the tines of silver forks is to put the silver polish on a pipe cleaner and it is easy to work around between them. — SUSAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is a suggestion for the manufacturers of spiral notebooks. I am left-handed, as are many other students, and it is very hard for me to write against that big wire loop so I do wish they would make left-handed notebooks. — ANNE

We have never been able to see the surface of Venus because the planet is covered with a dense, white cloudy atmosphere that conceals whatever is below it. # Gloomy Prospects For U.S. POWs and Peace

By CARL T. ROWAN

WASHINGTON — "When and how will we ever get out of this war?"

The questioner stood at the airport newsstand, shaking his head over a headline indicating that the United States had rejected the Communist offer to release GI prisoners in exchange for U.S. withdrawal from Indochina by the end of 1971.

Rowan

There was no one to answer the question. But in that story out of Paris about the U.S. rejection there were lessons aplenty for Americans about false hopes for prisoner exchanges and for achieving a political settlement of the war.

The allied response is surely an agonizing blow to the wives and relatives of American prisoners. But they must now understand better the cruel fact that neither side is about to surrender major political and military interests out of compassion for the POWs.

It was foolishly insensitive and unfair for the Nixon administration to ballyhoo the prisoner issue to the point that a lot of people began to think concern for the prisoners was more important than this government's ongoing commitment to Saigon or President Nixon's resolve not to preside over the first defeat in this country's long, proud history.

Mr. Nixon faced a grim choice: either leave the GIs in prison for an indefinitely longer period or accept a coldly cynical Viet Cong proposal that virtually demanded political and military capitulation on the part of Uncle Sam.

The Communists surely never expected the U.S. rejection of the Viet Cong proposal in a call for secret negotiations, a move designed to suggest that a deal may yet be made. There are some secret maneuverings, and sooner or later they will produce something, but the best bet is that there will not soon be any agreement on releasing prisoners independent of the other issues.

That session last Thursday in Paris produced some new indications of how far off peace may be.

The South Vietnamese negotiator, Pham Dang Lam, was much more direct in rejecting the Viet Cong offer. He noted that it called for total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces within six months but did not call for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam, Laos, or Cambodia.

Mutual withdrawal may seem eminently fair to Americans, but the reality is that if we wait for that we could be in the war for another generation. Hanoi does not even admit that it has scores of thousands of troops in the rest of Indochina, so it is not about to agree to a "matching withdrawal" scheme with the United States.

Then the South Vietnamese negotiator asked a revealing question of Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong representative:

"Will the fighting not continue in conditions advantageous to you since the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam, with only their own means, will have to face the aggression carried out by the North Vietnamese and their auxiliary forces?"

It hardly sounded like a man who, emboldened by the great success of Mr. Nixon's "Vietnamization" program, is confident of South Vietnam's ability to survive once all American troops leave.

The South Vietnamese say a U.S. pullout within six months is too soon and, left to make the decision alone, would probably decide that six years is too soon.

Mr. Nixon and his advisers clearly don't know what a safe date for "total withdrawal" might be, and that explains the opposition to setting a fixed pullout date.

There has been a lot of speculation as to what effect setting a withdrawal date might have on Hanoi and the Viet Cong. It might or might not speed release of the prisoners and open the door to meaningful negotiations.

Not much is said about what setting a date would do to or for the Saigon government. It just might make it come to grips with issues and problems (including political negotiations with the Viet Cong) which will not be met until everyone knows that the Americans are leaving.

There isn't any real motivation to make the concessions essential to peace where the Communists are concerned; they figure they have us over a barrel.

There is no real motivation toward peace on the part of South Vietnamese leaders, for the status quo looks safer to them than anything they can imagine following U.S. withdrawal.

U.S. diplomats and military leaders see strategic losses in every move the U.S. might take to end the war, so it is easy for them to see stalling as being in the national interest.

So the only real pressure for extrication of the U.S. is coming from the public and the Congress. And who knows how and when that pressure will produce peace?

Nation Takes Note Of 'Jesus People'

One of the most striking new developments in today's so-called "youth culture" is the growth of what have come to be known as the Jesus People.

The movement is characterized by an evangelical fervor that sends young men and women out into the streets and hippie ghettos of our larger cities in quest of, yes, old-fashioned conversions to Christianity.

Chances are when you see a marching group of young people in some of our larger West Coast cities today, they may be marching for Jesus instead of to burn down the local Bank of America.

Observers are drawing varied conclusions from the phenomenon. The more established, respectable churches are apt to write it off as a theologically naive fad. Others see it as the beginning of a genuine spiritual revolution.

Even such a respectable journal as the evangelical fortnightly,

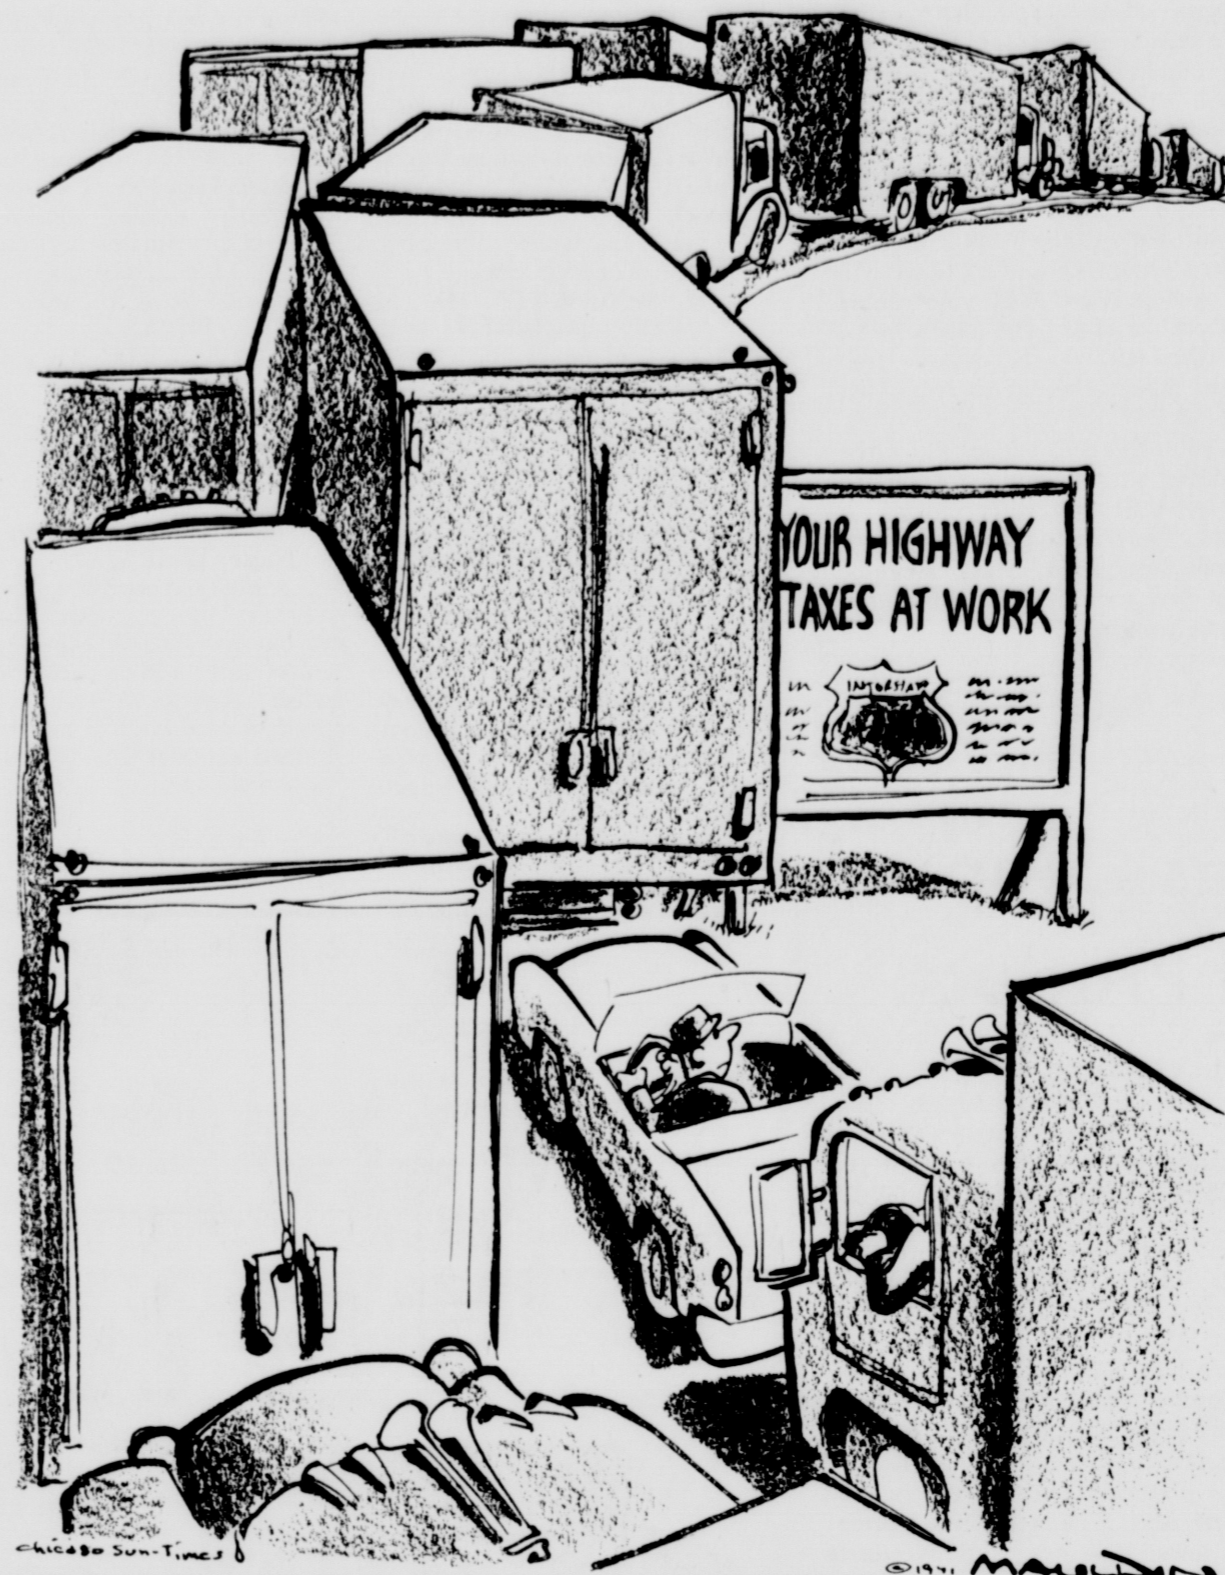

Christianity Today, sees in the Jesus People movement the seeds of a possible nationwide revival and return to religion.

There is no doubt a degree of faddism in the movement, and some of its followers may be attracted because it offers something new. But there is also a center core of conviction.

In contrast to their secular counterparts, the Jesus People hold to a strict moral code, disavow drugs and violence. They accent the joy, love and peace that they say accompanies "turning on" to Christ.

Time will eventually tell what kind of persons the Jesus People are, and what their impact has been. In the Biblical sense, "by their fruits" they will be known. In the meantime, the country could stand a little more of the infectious joy they are spreading.

It's a welcome change.

Merry-Go-Round

Press Conferences Are Well 'Staged'

corps. Before the conference begins, a seating chart of this section is made available for the President to study.

The "regulars" are often called upon for questions. They depend upon White House good will for stories, and they usually treat Nixon gently. Often they toss up a nice, easy "softball," then the President knocks it out of the park.

Nassikas Papers — The Federal Power Commission has finally made public the confidential Nassikas Papers, which show how Chairman John Nassikas sought to jack up gas rates by $4 billion. He suppressed studies challenging the natural gas industry's data and accepted the gas magnates' word that the $4 billion increase was necessary. However, we got hold of the suppressed documents and published the facts he had tried to hide. Citing our stories, the pro-consumer American Public Gas Association demanded that the FPC make the complete Nassikas Papers public. The commission complied, putting both our stories and the confidential memos into the public record.

Hartke's Hypocrisy — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., complained at a recent Senate hearing: "There is not one black member of the (Interstate Commerce) Commission." For the record, Hartke has a personal staff — both in Washington and Indianapolis — of some 30 persons. Not one is black.

Public Works — The AFL-CIO is lobbying on Capitol Hill for votes to override President Nixon's veto of the public works bill. In a private letter to Senate Public Works Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., the labor organization pointed out that work could be started on 3,000 water and sewer projects and 1,900 hospital and health centers. These projects, the letter contends, would create about 170,000 urgently needed jobs and generate enough additional economic activity to produce as many as 450,000 job opportunities.

Reagan's Rowdies — Ronald Reagan, governor of California's well-to-do conservatives, clothed himself in righteous white last year and set out to smash the California Rural Legal Assistance program.

He vetoed a $1.8 million federal grant to CRLA because its lawyers had thwarted his efforts to curtail services for the poor. It's worth mentioning that Lewis K. Uhler, Reagan's man in charge of investigating the CRLA and a one time member of the John Birch Society, has now been accused of using state funds for sending out telegrams during the 1970 campaign in behalf of Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif. We have also learned that Uhler's aide, John G. Sawicki, was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to 60 days in jail and three years probation on March 11, 1966, in Spokane, Wash. The court granted a routine "dismissal of cause" after he completed his probation.

A flock of young chickens, apparently just hatched out, were discovered on Indiana street. The source from whence they came was not found out until a country man from Windsor opened a four bushel box to make a sale of eggs, and found he had nothing left but empty shells! A fact. He had hatched the eggs around so long the sun had hatched them all out! No use for patent chicken hatchers in the sunny West.

Clearly, no one is going to halt the rolling tide presently sweeping over this issue. But it might not hurt to post a few warning buoys here and there.

Whatever we may be able to establish in the way of approximate or precise truth about Vietnam and Southeast Asia, there are some things we cannot know yet with any certainty — and some which we may never know.

We do not know whether Thailand, Burma, Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines would be worse off had we not fought our limited but still sizable war in Indochina. The domino theory, that they would all fall to the Reds if Vietnam fell, has not been tested by events.

But if the theory has not been proved right, neither has it been disproved. For Vietnam has not fallen. Anyone who says categorically that the domino idea was always nonsense is just a fancy Dan.

Those nations' secret government files may ultimately provide some clues as to what might have happened after 1965, but they will be only rough guides. Leaders may not in fact do what they think or say they will do in critical situations.

Moreover, if any of the "domino" countries has to face this dilemma in the years ahead, its answer may not be the same one it would have given in 1965-66. None of these lands is what it was then. Response to a South Vietnam defeat in, say, 1973 might be totally different than in that earlier time.

Indonesia is a special case. In an incredible 1965 bloodbath, it resisted a bold attempt at a Communist takeover, and set itself on a strongly independent course.

Liberals here said the event proved Asians could handle their problems without U.S. help. Others said our presence in Vietnam encouraged resistance to the takeover. Some Indonesian officials say we might have had indirect effect, by perhaps contributing to a "climate" heartening the non-Communists. We can never really be sure.

What about Laos and Cambodia in Indochina itself? Would they have tumbled quickly to Hanoi if South Vietnam had been conquered in 1965?

The betting may be fairly high that they would have fallen in the wake of a Saigon defeat, but no journalist or historian can either prove the proposition or disprove it. The correct answer requires reading the mind of a man now dead, Ho Chi Minh. It is a risky enterprise.

The overriding point is that our heavy participation in the Vietnamese war had inevitably to alter the course of events, not just in the war zones but in the neighboring lands beyond. Everything is different because we were there.

The frozen-peas school of instant history, undaunted by warnings of caution, is laying the whole Southeast Asian story out with breathless speed. A more perplexing blend of fact and fancy probably has never been offered to the American people. And much of it by men who complain about the credibility of the people they are chronicling. We can only wait out the shouting and the frenzied scribbles, and try to remember that only much later — if then — will we know some things about the war.

The secretary of defense is the representative of the Army, Navy and Air Force in the president's cabinet.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We have talked some about Lightner slam doubles the last couple of days. Here is an example of Lightner slam play which should go to show that, at the age of 77, Ted is still one of the great players of the game. The best rubber bridge technique.

Ted won the club lead in dummy. He led a diamond to the ace to see if there might be a singleton queen around. There wasn't, so he led a second diamond and finessed dummy's 10. If he had to lose the diamond finesse, he wanted to lose it to East so he could postpone hunting for the queen of clubs until later. The diamond 10 held and now Ted was sure of his contract.

It was time to think about the 30 points for an over-trick. He could afford to play dummy's king of diamonds to see if the queen would drop, so he did exactly that. The queen did drop. Now Ted was up to 12 tricks in top cards. He could afford to test the spades without having to look for the queen of clubs.

America's top experts explain their tournament-winning techniques in a new 128-page book on JACOBY MODERN. For your copy sent $1 with your name, address and zip code to: "Win at Bridge," (c/o this newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Did Ted take a chance with his slam when he played the third diamond? Suppose the queen didn't drop? In that case, Ted would have taken the club finesse so as to be sure that West could not gain the lead and make his slam with three tricks in each of the four suits.

Retirement Measure

Governor Warren E. Hearnes Signs 20 State Measures

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill setting a new judicial retirement system for all Missouri courts was signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday, one of 20 he approved. Judges' pensions will increase from one-third to one-half of their salaries but for the first time they will pay a 5 per cent contribution to the retirement fund. Death and widows' benefits also are included. A judge will need 12 years of service to qualify and may retire at 65. Judges under the nonpartisan court plan would have to retire at 75.

Two bills to implement the revised judicial article of the Constitution approved by the voters last year also were signed. One will give the courts of appeal in Springfield, Kansas City and St. Louis an additional judge whenever a supreme or appellate court commissioner retires or dies. The other will allow the attorneys general to represent the state in felony cases before the appellate courts. Another new law will restore special automobile license plates to "ham" radio operators, carrying their station call letters. Another will require circulators of referendum or initiative petitions to make sure each page of the petition contains names from only one congressional district. Also signed were bills to:

Provide state or local relocation assistance to persons displaced by condemnation if that is a condition for receiving federal funds — as in urban redevelopment projects. Authorize Kansas City to increase its library tax by up to 15 cents, for a maximum total of 25 cents per $100 valuation by a simple majority vote. Change the county urban road system in St. Louis County to a county arterial system and give cities in the county 100 per cent of the revenue from the first 18 cents of the county's special road and bridge tax, instead of the present 50 per cent, for use on roads within city limits. Let trustees of county hospitals provide retirement, health, life insurance and employment insurance plans as part of the compensation of their employees.

Authorities Seek Campsite Slayer

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Authorities in the Sierra foothills searched today for a suspect and a motive in the savage slaying of two persons and wounding of three others at a riverbank campground south of Nevada City. "We really don't know who we're looking for," Nevada County Sheriff Wayne Brown said after he surveyed the campsite overlooking the pebble-strewn beach at a bend in the Bear River. He talked for three hours with the husbands of two victims and said, "They can't throw any light on the matter. They're just as puzzled as we are." The two persons slain by the man Brown described as "a maniacal attacker wielding a heavy, sharp weapon" were found about 30 feet apart. One was Donna Fitzhugh, who with her husband and four children moved from Ontario, Calif., in mid-June. The other was Jimen Satan, 29, of nearby

Weimar who had set up a semi-permanent camp in a tarpaulin-covered camper he had built on a flatbed truck. Critically injured was Martha Marie Parker, 25, of Ontario, who underwent extensive surgery at Sacramento Medical Center for head wounds. Injured less seriously were Kenneth Garbe, 20, of Applegate in neighboring Placer County, and his wife Jean, 23. Brown said the killer slipped into the campground, a prime camping spot for those who know how to find it, about 11 p.m. Monday. He first confronted the Barges at their tent. "This guy threw open the flap and said 'Hi there.' That's all I remember him saying," Garbe said. "He was grinning, sort of growling." Garbe said the attacker swung at his wife with what appeared to be a sickle. He and the attacker struggled and "then the guy ran away from the tent."

Charges Leveled

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Mary Jane Keener, 21, of Cedar Rapids, has charged the Federal Communications Commission with discrimination because she says it has refused to give her a written examination for a commercial radio license because she is blind.

Miss Keener filed suit last month in Dubuque seeking to compel the FCC to give her the test.

Miss Keener, who holds a third-class radio telephone permit, said her application was turned down by Paul Hempton, an engineer in charge of the FCC Kansas City office, "solely on the grounds... according to FCC rules and regulations that a first class permit may not be issued to a blind person."

District Court Judge Edward McMannus held a pretrial conference on the woman's complaint Monday.

On CBS Case

House Avoided Matter's Heart

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has indirectly killed the CBS "Selling of the Pentagon" contempt citation without cutting to the constitutional heart of the subpoena dispute.

"The 1st Amendment towers over this proceeding like a colossus, and no esprit de corps, no tenderness of one member for another should cause us to topple over this monument to our liberties," House dean and Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Tuesday during the debate.

But instead of going to a direct floor vote that could have forced a court fight between broadcast journalists and legislators, the House laid the case to rest with a parliamentary maneuver that avoided outright rejection of a committee recommendation.

"I feel that this is a sad day for the American people," Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said after the House, by a 226-181 vote, returned the citation to his panel. That committee had urged contempt action against the Columbia Broadcasting System for refusing to supply untelevised material from the news documentary.

Staggers pronounced the citation dead. "We could do a lot of things, but I don't see any sense in it. It would just be a futile effort," Staggers said he plans no new effort to cite CBS for contempt.

"The vote today showed the awesome power of the television networks and the news media brought to bear on the House," he said. He insisted again he was not attacking the 1st Amendment press freedom in his bid to obtain film left-overs from the documentary that criticized Pentagon public-relations spending.

"This whole thing has been turned around entirely by the news media of this country," he said, adding that eventually something "will have to be done, in some way, to assure the American people that what they are seeing on their home television screens is not calculated deception."

Staggers had sought the citation against CBS and network president Frank Stanton in an effort to obtain the outtakes to check out charges questions and answers were mismatched through electronic manipulation unnoticed by the viewer.

Chafee Orders Drug Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee has ordered one-time-only exemption of drug users from punishment if they cooperate in their own rehabilitation, it has been learned.

Chafee's order covers both the Navy and the Marine Corps, which has been opposed to any blanket amnesty for drug abusers.

The directive, signed July 9, makes no mention of "amnesty." Instead it refers to "exemption" from disciplinary action or less-than-honorable discharge because of drug use or "possession incident to such use."

Marine sources indicated the wording satisfies the Corps. They said they feel amnesty has a "weak ring to it" and connotes "total forgiving of all."

"A member (of the naval service) may be granted exemption only once," Chafee decreed.

The order stresses "voluntariness" and says such disclosures must be made before a sailor or Marine is arrested for drug abuse or is officially warned he is suspected.

However, the program also extends to men who have been "involuntarily identified" in the course of tests, such as those given to men leaving Vietnam, or who are named as users by other men applying for exemption.

In these cases, those "involuntarily identified" or named will be given a chance to ask for the exemption.

The test of "sincerity" will be applied. As Chafee put it, "A member must be sincere in seeking to eliminate his drug dependence in order to qualify for exemption." He added that a man's "declared intention to cooperate fully in his own rehabilitation program" will be enough evidence of this.

If a man fails to cooperate after receiving exemption, Chafee said, he will be open to "appropriate administrative or punitive action" for future drug offenses.

Chafee stipulated that men asking for exemption "are not required to identify other drug abusers" as a condition.

New Seed Available In Area

George Miller of West Side Realty will be the Sedalia distributor for a recently-developed genetic grain cross, it was announced last week.

The new grain is a mixture of rye and wheat and is called "Triticale." It was developed by Dr. B. Charles Jenkins, president and director of research at the Jenkins Foundation for Research, Salinas, Calif.

Producers and distributors of the new seed report it is not intended as a bread crop, but for feed only. One of the biggest features of the new crop, authorities reported, is that it is light-sensitive and therefore may be planted either in Fall or Spring.

Laboratory studies show that the new seed contains 19.4 per cent crude protein, 2.52 per cent crude fibre and 8.37 per cent moisture. Total digestible nutrients in the seed were measured at 77.54 per cent.

George Norris, Chanute, Kan., a representative of Custom Farming Seed Co., Inc., introduced the seed to this area and may be contacted at Holiday Inn.

Board Approves Vote For Levy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The North Kansas City school board Tuesday night approved a 40-cent increase in operating levy and agreed to submit the issue to the voters Sept. 28.

The increase would bring the operating levy to $4.15 on $100 evaluation.

North Kansas City voters twice this spring defeated a proposed 75-cent levy increase.

Q — Who did the Children's Therapy Center purchase the land for its new building from and how long did this previous owner have the land? — Mrs. G. W.

A — The Therapy Center did not purchase the land. Roger Garlich, director of the Center, told Hot Line that Bothwell Memorial Hospital bought the property last year, after being authorized to do so by the City Council. The Center, according to Garlich, obtained the five lots through a 50-year lease for a total of $12,500. The lease payment was made in a lump sum, he said, and the cash for it came from the Virginia Flower Trust Fund, which was set up specifically for use by the Center for capital improvements. The revenue from the fund may be used for no other purpose, he said. Obtaining the property through this method, according to Garlich, qualified the Center for a federal grant to supplement construction funds available here.

Q — In a recent story The Democrat-Capital reported that unemployment payments were down in Pettis County and the surrounding area. Is this because employment is up, or because the time of eligibility for payments ran out in many cases? — R. B. S.

A — Russell Carr, manager of the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, said that a combination of both factors resulted in the decrease in unemployment insurance payments in May. Carr told Hot Line he was not positive on exact figures, but many unemployed Pettis Countians went beyond their 26-weeks limit. The term of eligibility, he said, depends on how many weeks of credits an individual has earned. Unemployment in the county dropped to 5.5 per cent, he said. He noted that both the construction and manufacturing firms in this area had reported job increases.

Q — What firm has the contract to supply kitchen facilities at the new municipal fire station? — R. W.

A — Hot Line learned from City Clerk Ralph Dedrick that the local Tempo store was the low bidder on a refrigerator and stove for the fire station. Such items as cabinets and sinks were installed under separate contract by plumbers and carpenters. There are no special kitchen facilities being installed at the station, it was emphasized.

Q — Can a veteran of World War I who receives a total disability pension also obtain medicare and medicaid coverage? — L. B.

A — Neither the fact that you are a World War I veteran, nor that you are receiving a total disability pension makes any difference under present medicare and medicaid laws. According to C. Kent Charles, manager of the local social security office, the medicare program consists of two parts: a hospitalization plan and a medical insurance plan. In order to be eligible for hospitalization, you must be 65 or over and draw regular monthly social security benefits. If you reached age 65 before 1968, you need not have made payments during a required number of calendar quarters to social security in order to be covered. If, however, you reached age 65 after 1967, you must have contributed for a specified period of time. Eligibility requirements for the medical program state that you must be 65 or over and have enrolled in the program within three years after you reached age 65. Additional information is available from the Social Security Office, 825 Thompson Road, in a pamphlet entitled, "A Brief Explanation of Medicare." Mrs. Marge Atkins of the Pettis County Welfare Office, said that in order to be eligible for medicaid, a person must be 65 or over and must receive welfare payments from the state.

By PETER WEAVER

Q — I purchased a stereo component system from an electronic shop. The total cost was $461.22, including $121.44 finance charges. After five months we paid the balance in full ($410.56).

I figured the monthly finance charge must have been $3.37. With 31 months of finance charges not used, I had counted on getting back $104.47. I was shocked when I got a check for only $63.74. Why don't I get the rest of my rebate? — Mrs. J. P. R. Moorefield, W. Va.

A — You figured the finance charges incorrectly. If you still have the original contract, read the fine print. Your $63.74 rebate was figured on the "Rule of 78." Don't ask me to explain it, but it means that the finance company applies most of the interest in the earlier payments before you really begin to pay back the principal. Most consumer loans (and mortgages) work this way.

Still, those finance charges look pretty steep. In the future, check around first with local banks or a credit union (if you belong to one) to see if you can get a lower interest rate.

For those interested in trying to save money by refinancing a

Q — Our furniture was stored by a moving and storage company for more than a year. Last winter when it was returned, the dresser drawers were frozen shut and chair cushions were covered with frost.

When the furniture thawed out, it smelled terrible and had to be stored in the garage. The company says the damage was "an act of God" and denies responsibility. Is there any recourse? — Mrs. E. G., Philadelphia, Pa.

A — Even though your furniture might have been moved a long distance, once it was stored for that length of time it becomes a local legal problem. Unfortunately, you get little protection when your goods go into storage. You must be especially careful in selecting a well recommended storage company.

To collect damages from a storage company, you have to prove outright negligence.

From what you've said, it seems like you might have a fair chance in a small claims court. The test is: How easily could the damage have been avoided.

Q — I have a white vinyl raincoat with an acetate lining. The coat can be wiped clean, but the lining is dingy. How should it be cleaned? — J. B., Washington, D.C.

A — The National Institute of Drycleaning says vinyl should not be dry cleaned. It might stiffen, crack and peel. Most vinyl can be hand washed with either soap or a detergent.

Snip off a piece of the acetate lining material and trace around it with pencil on a piece of paper. Then put the lining material in water and let it dry. Compare the dried piece with the tracing to see if it has shrunk. If it has, the only recourse is to remove the lining, have it cleaned and sew it back.

Q — Where can I purchase silk or non-nylon hosiery? A number of us who are allergic to nylon must wear something else. — Mrs. B. T., Stroudsburg, Pa.

A — Dermatologists say sensitivity to nylon is rare but sensitivity to chemical finishes in some stockings is not so rare. Try washing your stockings two or three times before wearing them.

Medical Bureau Unknown In Insurance Industries

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the least known units of the insurance industry is the Medical Information Bureau, which gathers, controls and disseminates medical information on 12 million applicants for life policies.

The bureau functions in a manner similar to a credit agency. Its 700 member companies contribute personal medical information obtained from applicants, and they also draw on the data to aid their investigations.

The stated purpose is to protect the companies against inaccurate applications and thereby prevent individuals with higher than average mortality prospects from upsetting a company's profits and rates.

Its value to the industry can hardly be overestimated. Not only do some applicants forget to list ailments that could cost the insurer money but fraudulent applications are common.

It also plays a critical role in the lives of thousands of individuals, affecting not only their security but their finances as well. But many of those affected have little idea that the MIB played a part.

This is partly by design. Although it traces its origins to before the turn of the century, its executive director stated in a speech to physicians two years ago that, "We have seldom gone out in the world to publicize or explain our work."

In recent years, said Joseph O. Wilberding, the director, the MIB has tried to be more open and frank. But, he told the doctors:

"This meeting today is the first time that I have talked generally about the bureau outside the confines of the insurance world."

The MIB is also controversial. Some agents, anxious to earn commissions, feel it is a blacklist. Some critics feel it prejudices an individual's ability to bargain freely. Others question the sharing of information by companies supposedly competitive.

Wilberding, and quite likely almost all the industry, feel the MIB's role is not only essential but eminently fair.

"It permits the industry to avoid putting a burden on honest policyholders," said Wilberding in an interview, explaining that if higher risk applicants were insured it would result in higher rates.

"All the MIB does is warn a company, put it on notice regarding the medical history of the person. We do not report that the person was rated or declined insurance. We're not in that business," he said.

"Our information is provided by code and only when an application is made. Each company makes its own investigation. Our information cannot be used alone to turn down or rate an applicant."

Can an individual obtain information from his file? "If a person writes to us," said Wilberding, whose office is in Greenwich, Conn., we will give him what information we can and have the company give him as much as possible."

Woman Is Killed In Car Accident

FAUCETT, Mo. (AP) — Clara Carpenter, 46, of Faucett, was killed Tuesday when a pickup truck struck her while she was standing near her car in her front yard, highway patrol troopers reported.

She was killed when the pickup, trying to pass, went out of control, the patrol said.

HHH Seeking MIRV Halt

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring the nation must not deploy new weapons while trying to limit old ones, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., asked Congress today to delay all funds for the multiple-warhead system called MIRV.

Humphrey told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the total cost of equipping all land- and sea-based missiles with MIRV tips may exceed an estimated $12 billion. He said in prepared remarks such "enormous expenditures" have not been justified by the Nixon administration.

Employing such a system now, Humphrey said, could unbalance what he called the parity between U.S. and Russian missile forces and distort arms limitation talks under way with the Soviet Union.

The former vice president introduced legislation to isolate all MIRV development funds in a special Treasury account until Congress and the President decide jointly the money is needed to counter a real Soviet threat.

Humphrey gave the committee a report by himself and two House members, concluding MIRV—Multiple Independently Targetable Re-entry Vehicle—is a weapon whose time has not come. The MIRV system places several warheads on a single missile, each aimed at a separate target.

The report said any urgency about deploying MIRV is stripped away by indications the strategic arms limitation talks in Helsinki, Finland, may be close to negotiating a limit on deployment of American and Soviet antiballistic missile systems—ABM.

"MIRV is a highly destabilizing weapons system which may become superfluous if agreements on ABM and offensive weapons ceilings are successful," the report said.

fully concluded at SALT," the report said.

It said placing MIRV in escrow "would be a firm indication to the Soviet Union of the United States' willingness to halt its MIRV program."

"It makes MIRV more negotiable than at present," the report said. Humphrey's call for a unilateral U.S. decision on MIRV clashes directly with the White House and Pentagon position that continued deployment enhances chances for a negotiated arms limitation.

Big Bats End Drought

AL Ends All Star Frustration, 6-4

DETROIT (AP) — After eight years of All-Star frustration the American League finally found the silver lining... and it came like a bolt out of the blue.

over the Nationals in Tuesday night's 42nd All-Star Game. "That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down," said National League catcher Johnny Bench about Jackson's gigantic, two-run pinch-hit wallop that highlighted a four-run third inning.

Stadium's right-center field, touched off an American League power spree. Frank Robinson delivered a two-run shot later in the inning and Harmon Killebrew followed with the clincher, another two-run smash in the sixth.

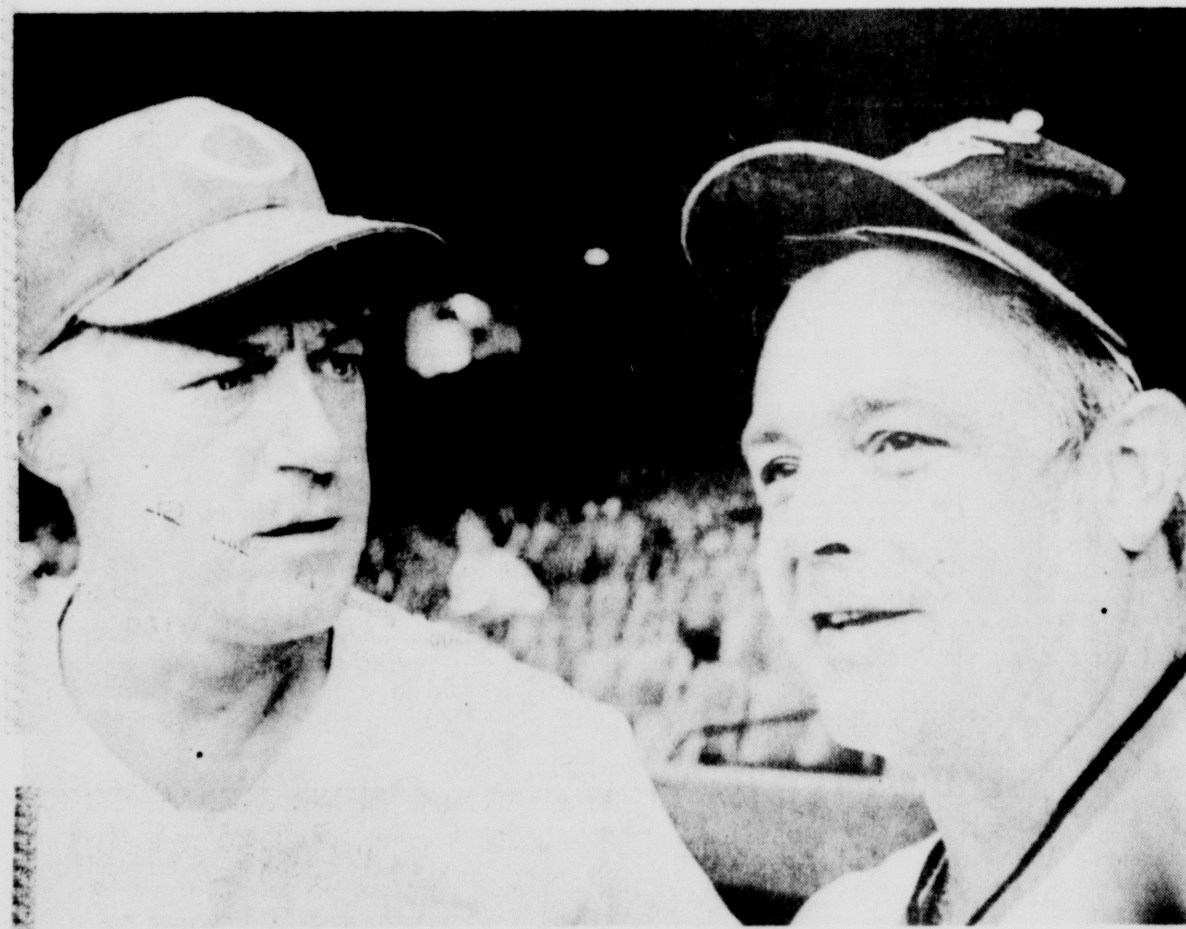

record and 188 strikeouts just halfway through the season, the Blue Blazer admitted he's only human. "I'm no super All-Star," said Blue, who said he was "nervous before I threw the first pitch" in his first performance in an All-Star game.

win a game and cut into the National League's 23-17 advantage. Then light-hitting shortstop Luis Aparicio hit a sharp single in the third and Jackson came in to bat for Blue, his Oakland teammate.

ovation as the home fans applauded the American League's first two runs. The Nationals didn't know it at the time, but it was all over.

pitcher ready. I'm nervous as hell, and I just can't relax until the ball's caught for the final out."

While the American stars pounded the cover off the ball, Weaver still wasn't sure about the outcome until third baseman Brooks Robinson pocketed Bench's pop for the last out.

What Did You Say?

Earl Weaver's Formula Works Out For American

DETROIT (AP) — American League Manager Earl Weaver came up with a new victory formula Tuesday night as his home-run conscious team cashed in on the long ball to nip the National League 6-4.

National League team whose eight-year domination of the annual All-Star classic came to an end in the action-packed meeting at Tiger Stadium.

Reggie Jackson, in the game as a pinch hitter for Blue, hit the first homer off the blazing-fast Ellis. It was a tremendous line shot to right-center field that bounded off a light tower high atop the third deck at Tiger Stadium as 53,559 fans reacted in amazement.

Tuesday night they combined to straighten out the American League's losing problem and now both are getting pats on the back.

Trevino Is Hoping Streak Continues

CHICAGO (AP) — "I just hope the wheels don't come off."

Streaking Lee Trevino was talking about his phenomenal string of golf championships, capped by his victory in last week's British Open.

"I don't know what's happening, but I hope it doesn't stop," Trevino said today as he prepared for Thursday's first round in the $150,000 Western Open.

"I just hope it keeps going, that this wagon keeps rolling. I like winning golf tournaments. I'd gone 13 months without winning. I'd been right up there a lot of times, but something always happened," he said.

"But then, all of a sudden, it just started happening."

He won five tournaments in just over two months, lost another in a playoff and completed an unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles in Southport, England only last Saturday.

His fantastic performance vaulted the 31-year-old Super Mex alongside Jack Nicklaus as the two dominant figures in the game today and stamped him as the man to beat in the 72 hole chase for the $30,000 first prize here.

Probably his chief opponent is Billy Casper, the 1970 Player of the Year but a nonwinner this season. Casper, winner of more than $1 million in prize money, was a late entrant.

He had planned to skip this old event and spend two weeks in Morocco as the guest of King Hassan II, but changed arrangements after bloody political upheavals in that country last weekend.

Some other leading contenders include Masters champ Charles Coody, also a late entrant, defending title-holder Hugh Royer, Gene Littler, George Archer, Miller Barber, Bert Yancey, Doug Sanders, Tom Weiskopf, Frank Beard and Dave Eichelberger, winner of last week's Milwaukee Open.

Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are taking some time off. Also among the missing are South African Gary Player and England's Tony Jacklin. Former PGA champ Dave Stockton withdrew because of an eye infection.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

3-My Dad's Clincher

sign, thereby outdoing the two guys next to me.

I'd almost never reach the 250 marker, and I almost never hit the ball straight. My dad was forever telling me to slow down my swing, but I didn't pay much attention to him.

Finally, one afternoon, he told me to forget the 250 sign for five minutes, and concentrate on making an easy swing and just trying to get the ball to the 175 sign. Well, I swung smoothly—and I flew the ball over the 175 sign by so much I was right out to the 250 sign!

I was amazed. And even I was smart enough to appreciate that he'd taught me a pertinent lesson. Ever since that day I've reminded myself to slow down my swing and not worry about distance. Distance will happen.

Ellis Working Out

Heavyweight boxer Jimmie Ellis is working out in the Astorhall in Houston now, in preparation for his July 26 12-round bout with Muhammad Ali. Ali began his training two days ago in the Astorhall by being floored by his sparring partner.

Frazier Gets Attention In His Vietnam Proposal

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Joe Frazier admits he can't out-talk his old antagonist Muhammad Ali, but the heavyweight champion does have a way of getting attention.

Frazier had been on the ground in Houston only a few minutes Tuesday when he announced he would try to get clearance to go to North Vietnam to seek the release of American prisoners.

Later he invaded Ali's training camp at the Astorhall because "I just wanted to see what you looked like now. Usually when I get through with a fighter, there's not much left."

Everybody seemed worried about Frazier's health except Frazier.

"Anybody who wants to check me up, that's okay with me," Frazier said. "I'm willing to go to any doctor. I've had no problems with headaches. I've been training three weeks and I feel great."

That's bad news for Cleveland "Big Cat" Williams, a seasoned pro, and James Helwig, a Texas Christian football player who recently turned pro boxer.

Frazier will spar two rounds with each in the Astorhall tonight as the feature of a card that includes four other fights.

Laver Puzzled

Seeks Peace For Tennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rod Laver of Australia, the best player of his era, says he can't understand why a permanent peace isn't negotiated between warring amateur and professional interests in tennis.

"There are two worlds, the pro and the amateur," Laver said.

"They should be working together. They should find their own niche and work at it. This can be worked out."

Laver made the comments to newsmen after winning his first-round match in the $50,000 Washington Star International Tennis Tournament Tuesday.

The top four seeds rolled to easy victories during the opening round.

John Newcombe, Australia, No. 1, blanketed Torben Ulrich, Denmark, 6-0, 6-0; Stan Smith, Sea Pine, S.C., No. 2, defeated Harold Solomon, Silver Spring, Md., 6-4, 6-2; Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va., No. 3, defeated Tito Alvarez, Argentina, 6-1, 6-2; and Laver, No. 4, defeated Roy Barth, San Diego, 6-3, 6-1.

Laver was critical of the action taken last week in Stresa, Italy by the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF), which banned professionals from its 1972 tournaments.

The ILTF's decision was aimed primarily at World Championship Tennis (WCT), a professional group led by Texas millionaire Lamar Hunt Jr. Laver is under contract to WCT.

Unless a reconciliation can be reached, pro stars such as Laver, Newcombe and Ken Rosewall of Australia and Ashe of the United States will be forced to miss next year's major tournaments, including Wimbledon and Forest Hills. Newcombe won at Wimbledon two weeks ago.

S-M, Pepsi Winners In Babe Ruth

S-M and Pepsi both won in Senior Babe Ruth action Tuesday night at Liberty Park.

Pepsi, behind another strong performance by Steve Eck, slipped by VFW, 6-1.

The game was won in the fifth inning when the victors broke loose with four runs, scored on two hits and three VFW errors.

Eck, who is now 5-3 for the season, struck out eight and walked only two in the contest.

Mike Arnold, 2-7, who absorbed the loss for VFW, led the losers at the plate with a 3-for-3 performance. Another solid pitching effort by Arnold suffered due to four VFW errors.

In the nightcap, league champ S-M downed Third National Bank, 6-3.

Randy Kidwell held TNB to four hits, running his record to 6-0, best in the league. Jim Lewis, 4-4, was the loser for Third National Bank.

Once again the fifth inning was a turning point for S-M, scoring three runs on three successive walks and an error. The outburst broke a 2-2 deadlock.

Kidwell fanned five and walked two in the game.

Bob Pledge, who went 2-for-2, continued to hike his league leading batting average, which now stands at about .480.

Final Senior Babe Ruth action for this season is set for Monday night at Liberty Park.

Pan-American Showing Style

MIAMI (AP) — One of Miami Beach's biggest hotels is about to become an athletic boutique.

Basic colors: red, white and blue.

An army of Sears Roebuck tailors—more in tune with middle America than Carnaby Street—will begin attiring the United States team for the Pan-American Games.

"They'll receive outfits for dress and travel," said a U.S. Olympic Committee spokesman. "Every athlete must spend at least three days at the Carillon Hotel being processed ... and suitably dressed."

Haberdashery demands will range from cloaking the 310-pound body of weightlifter Joe Dube to clothing the 95-pound frame of the nation's most petite girl swimmer.

In all, 380 young men and women will parade USA colors amid the midsummer heat of Cali, Colombia, when the Pan-Am Games open a three-week stand July 27.

Lightweight clothing is a must. July-August temperatures are barely bearable in Cali. Pan-Am Games officials have scheduled daily "siestas" to allow performers temporary respite from the heat.

Competition is scheduled for mornings, running through around 11 o'clock when the midday sun sends everyone inside. Action will resume when the cooler evenings arrive about 8.

Missouri Racers Place Heavily In Iowa 300

(Democrat-Capital Service)

DES MOINES — Four central Missouri area racers finished among the top ten money winners in a 34-car field on the 15th annual Iowa 300 held on the half-mile oval at the fairgrounds here Sunday.

Two veterans from Keokuk, Iowa, Ramon Stott and Ernie Derr, battled for the lead most of the way throughout the 300-lap IMCA event with Derr the eventual winner when Stott lost a ball joint while leading during the 290th lap. Stott still managed to finish second.

Finishing fourth in a '69 Ford was Gary Martin, California, Mo. In fifth place was Sedalia's Donnie Cooper in a '69 Dodge.

Two Sweet Springs drivers, Glenn Arnold and John Farmer, finished sixth and tenth, respectively.

Extortion Attempt Is Snuffed By FBI

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced early today a St. Louis teen-ager was arrested in connection with an attempt to extort $30,000 from St. Louis International Airport under a bomb threat.

William R. Kammer, 18, was arrested less than six hours after the bomb threat was telephoned to the airport manager's office Tuesday. But William A. Sullivan, head of the St. Louis FBI office, said the announcement was withheld pending completion of the investigation.

Sullivan said the FBI would seek warrants charging extortion and assaulting a federal officer.

An FBI agent exchanged gunshots with a young bushy-haired man who picked up a dummy money package placed in a derelict car according to directions given by the caller.

Sullivan said a man with a voice that sounded young called the airport manager's office at 2 p.m. and said for $30,000 he would divulge the location of a bomb that had been placed aboard a plane.

Airport officials said because the man refused to say what airline was involved or where the plane might be, no flights were interrupted and no aircraft were searched.

But the FBI, following directions and a crude map left at a public telephone booth about nine miles southeast of the airport in St. Louis, set a trap.

Agents placed the dummy package in an abandoned car near dense woods adjacent to the Gateway Army Ammunition Plant in west St. Louis and set up a stakeout.

Sullivan said about 4 p.m. a bushy-haired man about 20 years of age emerged from the woods, picked up the package and started back toward the trees.

An agent stepped into the open, identified himself and called on the man to surrender.

Instead, the man fired two shots at the agent and fled into the woods. The agent returned the fire. Neither man was hit.

Aided by a police helicopter and police dogs, authorities scoured the wooded area but found no trace of the fugitive.

Sullivan said Kammer was arrested at his home about 7:30 p.m. He was traced through an automobile license plate.

"He had reported to St. Louis police that his car was stolen," Sullivan said.

"In conducting an investigation of the neighborhood near the wooded area, we found a witness who had seen a 1961 Chevrolet and recorded its license number about the time of the shooting.

"That number checked with the plate on the car that had been reported stolen," he said.

After questioning Kammer for several hours, Sullivan said he would apply to the U.S. Magistrate today for warrants. He said the U.S. Attorney's office had authorized prosecution.

Culver Will Challenge Constitutionality of Ban

LAKENHEATH, England (AP) — Capt. Thomas Culver says he will challenge the constitutionality of the U.S. Air Force's ban on demonstrations under which he was convicted Tuesday.

Culver is to be sentenced to-day and could receive a maximum of four years in prison, loss of all pay and a dishonorable discharge.

An Air Force court-martial by eight officers on Tuesday found the 32-year-old lawyer from Westfield, N.J., guilty of participating in a demonstration against the Vietnam war in London May 31 and of soliciting other servicemen to join in it was the first time an American serviceman was tried in Britain on charges of demonstrating.

Servicemen abroad are banned from taking part in such demonstrations although they may do so in the United States while out of uniform and off duty. Culver said he would appeal his conviction and would take the case all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary.

"This is an important test case raising so many constitutional issues," Culver said. "It will force the military to look again at the constitutional rights of the First Amendment."

He expressed confidence that the Court of Military Appeals in Washington would decide in his favor.

The tiny courtroom at the Lakenheath Air Base near Cambridge was packed Tuesday at the climax of the trial. When the verdict was read, girls among the spectators cried.

But the stocky defendant, who as an attorney has participated in more than 200 military cases during six years in the Air Force, remained calm and said the verdict didn't surprise him.

"It'll take a hunk out of my life," he said, "but I'm not sorry for what I did. I'm proud of it."

Culver was one of 168 American servicemen who delivered an antiwar petition to the U.S. Embassy in London on Memorial Day. The captain said he did not consider this a demonstration. "We considered that to petition the government was legal."

During the trial he had quoted President Nixon as saying, "Every man is a citizen first and a serviceman second."

Guthrie Family Homeward Bound

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The widow and son of Dust Bowl balladeer Woody Guthrie arrived in Oklahoma Tuesday night to take part in what was to be the first hometown commemoration of Guthrie's birthday since he hit the open road in the 1920's.

Mrs. Marjorie Guthrie and Arlo Guthrie held a press conference in Oklahoma City, Mrs. Guthrie said she was "very pleased to come because there are a lot of people here who want to celebrate Woody's birthday."

A few Okemah residents, however, have spurned the idea of honoring the town's most famous son because of allegations of Guthrie's Communist connections during his bohemian life.

Asked what he thought about people calling his father a Communist, Arlo Guthrie shrugged and said, "That's fine. It's better than nobody being interested."

Woody Guthrie would have been 59 Wednesday. The songwriter balladeer died of Huntington's disease in 1967. He had suffered from the disease of the nervous system for 15 years.

Guthrie wrote and recorded such folk classics as "This Land Is Your Land," "So Long," "I've Been Good to Know You," "Hard Travelin'" and more than 1,000 other songs during his lifetime.

Accompanying Arlo and his mother were his wife, Jackie, and their 15-month-old son, Abraham, who Arlo carried about on his shoulders.

Mrs. Guthrie said she has hopes of changing the minds of those persons who have branded Guthrie a Communist.

"I feel so strongly about it, I'm not going to worry," she said. "If they would read the words and listen to his songs, they'd be as happy as we are to celebrate his birthday."

She said she, Arlo and Jackie will have a luncheon meeting with some of the civic leaders of Okemah today. Then she hopes to present some records and books to the Okemah library.

"We would like to honor Woody, and we want to honor Okemah, too," she said. "I can't imagine why anyone wouldn't want to hear good songs and read good books."

The Guthries said they are looking forward to a benefit folk singing concert tonight at the Menners Theatre in Oklahoma City. Proceeds will go to the research into the causes of Huntington's disease.

Red Chinese Willing For Conference

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China is willing to take part in a new international conference on Vietnam along the lines of the 1954 Geneva parley that ended France's war in Indochina, the leader of the Australian Labor party said today on his return from Peking.

Party leader Gough Whitlam headed a delegation of Laborites who spent 12 days in China and talked with Premier Chou En-lai and other leaders.

"I discussed the Geneva conference and its revival with Chou," Whitlam told a news conference, "and the Chinese are quite willing to participate in any renewed Geneva conference."

Whitlam, whose party is opposed to Australia's participation in the Vietnam war, did not enlarge on Chou's ideas about a conference on Vietnam, but he said: "The administrative arrangements for a revived Geneva-style conference would have to be more in an Asian framework."

He pointed out that the convening powers of the 1954 conference—Britain and the Soviet Union—were both European, and only one of the three nations on the International Control Commission set up to police the agreement was Asian. The three nations are India, Canada and Poland.

Whitlam did not say whether these were also Chou's views, but it seemed likely that they were.

Hearings Are Set In Two Rape Cases

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Preliminary hearings for two men charged in separate Kansas City rapes were continued until next Tuesday.

Louis Carl Robinson, 21, is accused of raping a 24-year-old woman June 28; and Robert Lee Fellows, 20, is charged in the rape of a 24-year-old woman June 30.

Both men are Kansas City residents.

Refuse Extradition In Bombing Mishap

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Randolph E. Gould, 22, has refused to waive extradition to Lawrence, Kan., county officials said Tuesday night.

Gould is wanted in Lawrence in connection with the bombing of the home of Daniel A. Young, then county attorney.

Gould, one of four persons indicted on federal bomb conspiracy charges last Friday, was charged Tuesday with being a fugitive. But a jail spokesman said he posted bond on that charge and was released.

Gould had already posted bond on the federal charge.

The last of the four persons named in the federal grand jury indictment was taken into custody Tuesday. Richard L. Stanley, 21, a soldier stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., was jailed in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Martin L. Baumgarten, 24, and Kenneth Sandusky, a former substitute teacher in Kansas City, were arrested earlier. Baumgarten is free on $7,500.

Africa Buying Steel

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa is purchasing some 225,000 tons of steel—most of it from Japan—to relieve a shortage here.

At the same time the government's Iron and Steel Corp. (Isco) continues to export steel made in South Africa.

This in-one-door-out-the-other business is not as illogical as it appears.

An Isco spokesman describes the current shortages as "short-term fluctuations with which our existing plant cannot cope." If Isco equips itself to meet all demands at all times, it would have excess capacity and probably have to increase prices, he said.

Exports are continuing under contract "to keep our foot in the export market."

Reports reaching here from Japan say Isco is seeking 75,300 tons of wire rod, including 20,000 tons of special steel wire rod.

The London Metal Bulletin says of the additional 150,000 tons of steel products sought by Isco, Japanese firms have obtained orders for 60,000 tons of heavy plates, galvanized sheets and sections. Negotiations are continuing and it is expected further orders will be placed in Japan.

The 225,500 odd tons needed by Isco is valued at more than $28 million.

Trimmer Trouble

For K. C. Company

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A tree trimmer, working in the southwest part of Kansas City, knocked out electricity to 1,500 homes when he twice broke the same 13,200-volt line.

Kansas City officials said the trimmer, working for a private tree service company, first snapped the power line at 3:42 p. m. Monday. Emergency crews began repairs.

Moving down the road, a spokesman said, the trimmer snapped the same line.

"We hope he's gone home for the day," said a Kansas City Power and Light Co. spokesman.

Electricity was restored by 6:30 p. m.

Stolen Rembrandts

Back to Museum

BAYONNE, France (AP) — Two of three Rembrandts stolen from the Bonnet Museum here March 3 were returned Monday by reporters from the West German newspaper Bild Zeitung. They found the paintings in Frankfurt following an anonymous telephone call in Hamburg.

The third painting is believed to be in the hands of a gang of international art thieves in Amsterdam, the newsmen said.

The paintings returned were a Christ on the cross and a portrait of the Bürgermeister Jean Six. The missing painting is of a rabbit.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A Sumatran journalist has gone on trial in Medan for publishing secret documents about a government plantation.

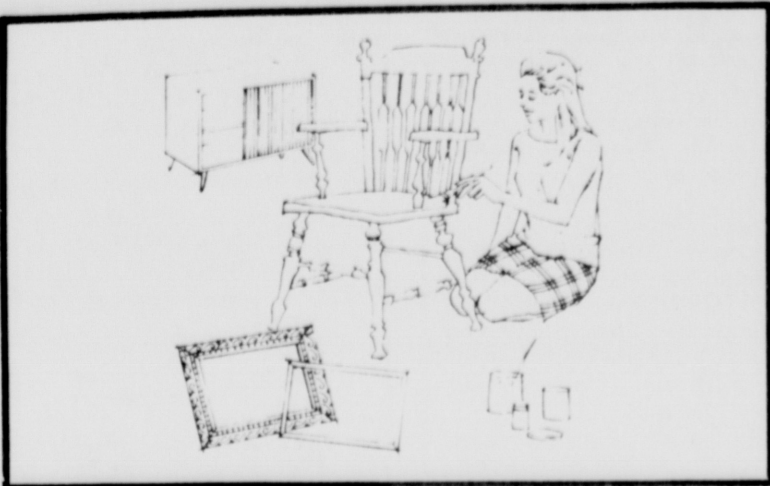

The writer for the weekly Panorama Indonesia, identified only as S.H., faces a six-month jail term if convicted.

His story also reported that in 1969 tobacco production on the plantation declined.

National Endowment For the Arts Sustaining American Heritage

Source Of Support

Nancy Hanks is chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts and of the National Council on the Arts. As such, she's in charge of direct help to the arts given by the U. S. government, an effort the Nixon administration seeks to expand to double its present size in the budget for the coming year. Miss Hanks says her goal is to bring art to more millions of Americans, including those who live away from the great cultural centers. (AP)

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A visiting poet encourages children in the fifth grade at Ft. Washakie, Wyo., to write poems.

Another, in a slum area of New York City, asks a class, "What kind of sound do you think the Delaware River makes?"

Twenty-two contemporary dance companies present 105 weeks of programs in communities in 44 states. And the National Symphony Orchestra in the nation's capital meets its payroll with the help of an emergency federal grant, assuring that it will not have to disband before taking up residence this fall in the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

These are among the fruits of the first sustained effort by the U.S. government to give direct help to the arts.

The United States has lagged behind most industrial nations in extending support for the arts, and the new program has not been free from criticism.

Nancy Hanks, a striking 43-year-old brunette who has headed the National Endowment for the Arts since early in the Nixon administration, concedes that questions of taste and esthetic judgment are certain to arise about particular performances or exhibits.

"It must be understood that, as in science or public health or defense, mistakes will be made, that experiments will not always be successful, that performances or paintings or expressed thoughts will not be acceptable to all audiences," she says.

With the endorsement of President Nixon, she is pressing for an approximate doubling of the Endowment's budget. Last year Congress extended for three years the life of Miss Hanks' 5-year-old agency and that of the companion National Endowment for the Humanities.

It authorized maximum spending of $40 million the last fiscal year, $60 million for the coming fiscal year and $80 million for the following year, split equally between the two agencies.

As is the case with other programs, Congress often appropriates less than it authorizes. This year, for example, Congress voted just over $15 million. Nixon's budget for the coming year, while it cut many other programs, asks $30 million for the Arts Endowment, the full amount authorized. Miss Hanks declined to com-made us write poems about those pitchers."

Or another child in University City, Mo., speaking of a visiting artist: "You learn a lot from him and it just didn't seem like it was being taught. You just talk and you can learn. You're learning from him, he's not teaching you."

These programs are among Miss Hanks' favorites, although they take relatively few of the dollars which she rations out at the rate of $1 for every $4 asked.

In the current year, nearly $5.5 million has been allocated to music, including grants to 73 orchestras in 38 states. Not all these funds are taxpayers' money. Within limits, the endowment matches donations from foundations, corporations and other private sources. The total music grants this year included $1.5 million in private money.

Another big chunk, $4.125 million, has gone to state arts councils, which are required to match the U.S. grants.

Other major programs this year have included theater, more than $2 million; visual arts, $728,000; museums, $950,550; literature, $346,500; education, $617,000; dance, more than $1.25 million.

If Congress votes less than the full $30 million, her plan is to scrap plans for new programs, as opera was left on the shelf this year. This policy was established by the first Endowment chairman, Roger L. Stevens, and Miss Hanks adheres to it, rather than spreading available funds thinly over the whole spectrum of arts.

Miss Hanks is the final arbiter as to who gets how much, subject to her total budget, but she gets lots of advice.

Upon announcement that the Endowment has so many dollars for grants in a specific field, says her deputy, Michael Straight, a flood of applications pours in to be screened by panels of outside experts.

The panels, named by the Endowment chairman, make recommendations to the National Council on the Arts, a 26-member, presidentially appointed body which meets several times a year. Members now include Marian Anderson, Charles Eames, Duke Ellington, Charlton Heston, Gregory Peck, Beverly Sills and Harper Lee. Miss Hanks heads the council.

Miss Hanks' close association with the arts goes back 15 years. A native of Miami Beach and a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Duke University in 1949, she has studied also at the University of Colorado and Oxford. Duke invited her to make this year's commencement address, the first time it had invited a woman.

She held several federal jobs in the early 1950s and became an assistant to Nelson A. Rockefeller when he was undersecretary of welfare in the early years of the Eisenhower administration.

In 1965-69, she was with the Rockefeller Brothers Fund as coordinator of a project on "The Performing Arts: Problems and Prospects," and another dealing with foreign affairs and domestic policy.

While Miss Hanks is not a practicing artist or musician—"They gave me singing lessons when I was a child, but it was a total failure"—she has a broad range of artistic interests and says her goal is to bring art to more millions of Americans including those who live away from the great cultural centers. "Government does not support art—as one climbs a mountain—because it is there; but rather because it is not there enough," she said.

In pursuing this goal, the Endowment makes grants of surprising diversity.

The University of Kentucky at Lexington was given $19,418 to study methods of strip mining that leave the landscape intact.

Over a three-year period, grants totaling $215,000 were made to 12 noncommercial publishers and printers of fine books.

There was a grant of $10,000 to the Institute of Design and Research in Providence, R.I., for a study aimed at enhancing the safety and appearance of highway signs.

Grants of $1,000 or less were made in one year to enable chamber music societies in 12 cities—Nashville, Houston, Philadelphia, Kalamazoo and Pittsburgh among them—to enlarge their schedules.

A total of $125,000 was given in one year to assist playwrights produce new works at five university and resident theaters, and NET Playhouse received $160,000 to help finance the filming of four plays for National Educational Television audiences.

There was a $3,500 grant made for analysis of varnish believed to have enriched violin quality and resonance more than 200 years ago; a grant of $1 million to help set up a non-profit corporation to convert the old Bell Telephone Laboratories on New York's lower West Side into studio-living quarters for 384 artists; and Miss Hanks dismisses as not applicable the argument, voiced often in the years when Congress debated whether to enter the field, that federal support brings federal control or influence over the artists.

One who agrees with her is a part-time associate with a perspective on both sides of the fence, Brian O'Doherty, editor of one of the major magazines in its field, "Art in America."

O'Doherty, who administers a program which among other things provides $7,500 fellowships to 40 artists this year, said in an interview:

"I am really tremendously impressed by the way conditions are minimal. The grants are given to artists to buy time or materials or to advance their careers as they see fit. They stimulate an awful lot of interest."

The Endowment has made grants aggregating $362,000 over a three-year period to enable 45 writers to complete works in progress or to conduct needed research.

Under another $750,000 program, financed jointly with the U.S. Office of Education, professional artists, poets and other writers and dancers go into classrooms, not to develop a generation of poets and painters and dancers, but to stimulate appreciation among the young.

Leonard Randolph, director of the literature program, shows a documentary film of poet Kenneth Koch working with a class at P.S. 61 in New York City, not far from Harlem. The class is fully integrated—whites, blacks, Puerto Ricans.

Koch suggests they write a poem about rivers and asks them to name some. The class becomes a bit noisy as the children call out names and ask questions.

"What kind of sound do you think the Delaware River makes?" Koch asks children.

"What kind of sound do you think the Amazon makes? All right, let's have two minutes of silence while you think about it. No questions."

After a period of pencil-chewing and writing, some of the kids read what they have written.

***

Another program started this year in Wyoming reached nearly 800 youngsters and teachers hope to expand it next year. "So much money is spent on equipment which doesn't begin to do what this program has for both the students and the teachers," one teacher commented.

A third grade boy in Sheridan, Wyo., whose father was lost in Vietnam, wrote this poem:

"The war began, it never stopped

"It kept on going and then one day

"An earthquake came in its place

"And the war had to stop because

"One of the sides had broken arms

"And the other side had broken legs

"So they wept and wept."

On a less emotional note, another Wyoming pupil had this comment about the program: "Never write notes while poets are here. They'll think it's a poem."

MEEKER MASSACRE

MEEKER, Colo. (AP) — Enraged when federal agents plowed an irrigation canal across a pony race track in 1879, Indians went on the war-path and killed 11 men and took women and children hostages.

The massacre followed attempts by Nathan C. Meeker, an Indian agent, to make farmers out of the wandering tribes.

Marine Training Tough

Parris Island Certainly No 'Rose Garden'

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — "This is no rose garden." That's how Maj. Gen. Carl W. Hoffman describes the Marine Corps Recruit Training Depot on this palmetto-fringed island on the South Carolina coast.

Few of the more than 4,000 recruits in boot training here would quarrel with the assessment offered by Hoffman, who took over in May as commanding general.

Thirty-nine young Leather-necks were hospitalized July 3 with kidney problems blamed on excessive exercise ordered by a drill instructor.

The recruits told a Marine investigating officer the drill instructor exercised them up to 15 minutes at a time on several occasions over a 36-hour period.

The exercise broke down muscle tissues and affected the kidneys.

Regulations prohibit the exercising of a recruit during the first two weeks of training for longer than five minutes at a time, with a 30-second rest required halfway through. The recruits had been training two days when they were hospitalized.

The drill instructor has been assigned other duties, away from recruit training, and Co. Theodore Metzger, head of the recruit training regiment here, says the DI probably will face punitive action.

Metzger expects most of the recruits to return to duty but some may be discharged.

The incident stirred unhappy memories of a 1956 tragedy in which six recruits drowned in one of the island's tidal creeks.

A drill instructor, deciding his platoon needed extra discipline, had taken the recruits on an unauthorized night march.

Largely because of the drownings, the Marine Corps today is highly sensitive to charges that drill instructors are allowed to mistreat recruits under the guise of training.

The Marine Corps says the death march resulted in more controls and restrictions being placed on DIs. Those controls and restriction are in effect today, Hoffman said, but boot training remains otherwise almost the same.

Recruits at Parris Island, one of two such depots run by the Marines, put in 16-hour days filled with the sound of shouting drill instructors wearing Smokey-the-bear felt hats and with constant marching on asphalt parade grounds.

A recruit at Parris Island goes almost nowhere by himself. During his nine weeks on the island, he is allowed no weekend passes, goes to no movies on base, may visit the base exchange only with the platoon, and talks with fellow recruits only during an hour of free time before taps each night.

Every moment of a recruit's day is planned, from the time he brushes his teeth in the morning until three DIs assigned to the platoon put the recruits to bed.

If the training on the island remains essentially the same as that offered for the past 30 years, the facilities have improved. The quonset huts and tents that housed tens of thousands of recruits during and after World War II are gone. In their place are modern new barracks, some air conditioned.

"We basically have the same policy and philosophy that we have always had," said Metzger, who passed through Parris Island as a recruit in 1944. "Our basic philosophy is that service in the Marines is tough and that the training has to be tough."

Other branches of the Armed Forces may make training more comfortable for servicemen—beer in the barracks, go-go dancing with dinner—but the Marine Corps has no inclinations in that direction.

Hoffman and Metzger say the Marine Corps is determined to "preserve the image of being tough but reasonable."

Metzger and Hoffman say recruits are encouraged to report any mistreatment. But because many recruits fear their remarks may backfire, most say nothing.

"Whenever you are dealing with humans," said Capt. Mark Arnold, a public affairs officer, "you have the possibility of one of them making a mistake and doing something he shouldn't. Drill instructors are human and some of them occasionally react improperly to the situation. Only a robot wouldn't make such mistakes."

In 1969—figures for 1970 were not available—three drill instructors here received general courts-martial and all were convicted of various offenses.

Offenses might range from punching a recruit to forcing him to run up and down the stairs to the point of exhaustion, Arnold said.

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal study says some Iowa Medicaid recipients may have been denied skilled nursing care unfairly and that pharmacists may have reaped $1.2 million in excess drug payments.

The study says also the state's deviation from approved appeals procedures could be a factor in a decline of skilled nursing services for Medicaid recipients.

Department of Social Services possibly denied skilled nursing care to 142 Medicaid recipients.

The study recounts this case of a young man paralyzed below the waist, to illustrate violations:

Admitted to a nursing home Aug. 17, 1969, Blue Cross declared him ineligible for further nursing care payments after March 31, 1970.

He appealed the decision, which was upheld by the director of the state's bureau of medical services although every witness at a hearing supported his contention he required further nursing care.

Although federal and state regulations require that a Medicaid recipient who appeals a decision cutting off further nursing care be told why, the paraplegic was never given a specific reason for the denial.

As much as $1.2 million in overcharges for drug purchases may have been paid out under the program, the report says, "because of a high dispensing fee and the fiscal agent's Blue Cross liberal method of computing maximum allowable drug costs."

The program's total drug expenditures during the period were about $10 million, the report says.

Blue Cross' method of computing drug costs, the study says included the unauthorized practices of rounding costs out to the nearest nickel and tacking on a 5 per cent "cost factor" to allow for "inflation."

A comparison of Medicaid drug costs with those in a survey by a private drug manufacturer showed the average Medicaid prescription was about 15 per cent higher than the price paid by the general public during fiscal 1969, the report says.

HEW audits each state's Medicaid programs on a rotation basis because federal funds pay for part of the programs.

regulations were violated, it said.

The director of the state's bureau of medical services gave this explanation, according to the report:

"It is not always in the best interest of recipients to be informed of their physical condition. Furthermore, the knowledge of such information was not always in the best interest of the treatment plan established by the recipient's physician. In the case of a terminal illness, the attending physician may not want the patient to be knowledgeable of his condition."

But the report says, "We believe the state agency's deviation from the approved appeals procedure could be a factor in the overall decline of skilled nursing services provided Medicaid recipients."

"During March 1969 there were 1,891 Medicaid recipients in the state receiving skilled nursing care. By June 1970 the number of recipients had decreased to 204."

In Iowa's case, federal funds made up 58 per cent of the total $72,334,458 spent for Medicaid from its start July 1, 1967, through June 30, 1970, the study says.

President Leading Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon leads Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., by 44 to 36 per cent with Alabama Gov. George Wallace getting 13 per cent according to a Louis Harris poll testing 1972 election possibilities.

"Suppose the 1972 election for president were being held today and you have to choose right now. Would you vote for Richard Nixon, the Republican; Senator Edward Kennedy, the Democrat, or Gov. George Wallace, the independent?"

Harris said Monday his organization asked that question at 1,614 households between June 9 and 15 among persons likely to vote in 1972.

Harris said the poll found Kennedy had strong support among black voters, with 71 per cent compared to 13 per cent for Nixon and 2 for Wallace.

Among eligible voters under 30, Kennedy was favored by 45 per cent, Nixon by 37 per cent. Of voters, over 50, Nixon was favored by 54 per cent with Kennedy getting 27 per cent and Wallace 12.

CAPTAIN GETS DEGREE

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Capt. Alfred F. Blair, who left college 31 years ago to join the Navy, finally got his bachelor of arts degree at Penn State.

The Pittsburgh native, now commanding officer and director of the Antisubmarine Warfare Tactical School in Norfolk, Va., took a nine-month furlough from the Navy to enroll at the Ongontz campus of the university near Philadelphia. While at sea he worked on correspondence courses and he studied languages with private tutors.

Capt. Blair, 54, said "I wanted to wrap up that college degree before all five of my children beat me to it."

Cold U.S. Shoulder To Cong Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has given the public cold shoulder to a new campaign apparently mounted by Hanoi to convince the world the seven-point Viet Cong peace plan contains elements for serious negotiations.

Since they made their proposal in Paris July 1 the Communist negotiators and their leaders in Hanoi have kept in the limelight with interviews and speeches claiming there is more to their plan than a promise to release American prisoners if the United States sets a withdrawal date by the end of the year.

The newest development came in reports the North Vietnamese would accept an independent, neutral government in Saigon.

When asked about this Monday the State Department did not give a direct answer. One official said "the portion of the seven points dealing with neutrality and unification is quite similar" to previous demands put forth since 1969.

However, the new Viet Cong offer did not mention the word "coalition" and said the only current South Vietnamese official it would not negotiate with is current President Nguyen Van Thieu. Always before Hanoi had specifically ruled out other Saigon leaders, including

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Tran Thien Kheim.

Previous U.S. rejections of proposed political settlements have been centered around expressed fears a coalition government would mean a Communist takeover, and a neutralist government would be imposed against the will of the people. It is also up to the people to decide their leaders, according to the U.S. position.

President Nixon, has said, however, he would not oppose a neutral, independent Saigon government if that's what the people of South Vietnam want.

Administration reaction to the Viet Cong plan also was reflected in the Senate Monday with GOP Leader Hugh Scott attacking any support for accepting the entire proposal.

While the Viet Cong plan has some positive parts, Scott said, "some people have rushed to say we should embrace the entire seven-point proposal."

This "rush to the public" with a call for accepting all seven points "is the sheerest idiocy," Scott charged.

But U.S. skepticism appears as concerned about the public nature of North Vietnam's arguments as with their substance.

American officials have said they would respond through the negotiating process. And last week, the U.S. ambassador to the peace talks, David K. E. Bruce, asked the sessions be held behind closed doors so the United States could seriously seek clarifications.

This was turned down last Thursday and the world has had a continued view of the North Vietnamese public position since.

This has included a speech by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong urging the United States to consider the seven-point plan as a serious offer. He also was reported to have downplayed the personal invective that marked previous North Vietnamese comment regarding American leaders.

In past days the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have told newsmen and others they are willing to separate the military and political aspects in negotiating a settlement.

They also have indicated publicly a willingness to meet in Paris with Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser. Kissinger left Paris Monday for the California White House without any report of having met the Communist negotiators.

Further, there have been reports foreign leaders have been enlisted to carry the view of Hanoi's stated seriousness.

Sorghum Research Proposal

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A University of Nebraska team engaged in a sorghum research project has suggested the possibility of harvesting a crop of sorghum from the same plot of ground in a single season.

The research team financed in part by the Rockefeller Foundation, includes representatives of the departments of agronomy, agricultural engineering, botany, electrical engineering, horticulture and forestry, and biochemistry and nutrition, along with representatives of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Howard Ottoson, experiment station director, said the scientists have made these findings:

—A short season sorghum planted after the wheat harvest and with the right starter fertilizer can make a good second crop in good growing years.

—New and improved materials for breeding hybrid sorghums.

—New information about heat and drought tolerance.

—A new rapid method of determining protein content.

—A good simple indicator of physiological maturity of sorghum.

Smaller Vehicles Preferred

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seriously threatened by small imports, Detroit finally has learned Americans don't want big, gaudy, gas-eating cars, says Victor Reuther, last of the pioneer auto union brothers.

If the U.S. auto industry "sacrifices the gingerbread, splashy chrome and the luxury of ridiculous model changes every one or two years," it can compete perfectly well with Japanese and German imports which have been grabbing increasingly large chunks of the U.S. car market Reuther says.

Reuther, 59, announced recently he will retire next May 1 after 35 years in the labor movement. He is director of the international affairs division of the United Auto Workers.

His brother, UAW President Walter Reuther, was killed in a plane crash last year. Another brother, Roy, Walter's assistant, died of a heart attack in 1968.

"It is only this year that the American auto industry has made even a small beginning in trying to meet Japanese import competition," Reuther said in an interview.

General Motors' Vega and Ford's Pinto offer the best chances for U.S. industry to head off the import car stampede, Reuther said.

U.S. auto makers, "wanted people driving down the highway with several tons of steel and metal instead of maybe just one ton," Reuther said. "Their margin of profit is greater. They deliver sermons about competition begging the life blood of the free-enterprise system, but they didn't even try to meet the competition."

"If it had not been for this foreign challenge," Reuther said, "the American consumer today would not have access to the small car."

Wichita Teachers Renewing Contracts

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — All but about 100 of last year's teachers have signed contracts to teach in Wichita's public schools next fall.

Despite a contract dispute with the Wichita branch of the National Education Association, in which some teachers threatened not to sign for another term, the system's teacher turnover is less this year than it has been in several years.

The Board of Education and NEA reached a settlement June 21 after weeks of debate and conflict.

"Virtually all of them have signed," Personnel Director Keith Esch said Monday. The deadline for returning contracts is Thursday. There are 2,900 teachers.

Twelve positions were abandoned in order to provide $114,000 for salary increases averaging 3 per cent. Another 2.1 per cent was added to training and experience premiums.

The new base salary for the 1971-72 school year will be $6,700, an increase of $250.

Iceland Leaders Agree on Closing

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — All parties in Iceland's incoming leftist government are reported agreed that the NATO base at Keflavik must be closed and that its 3,000 American servicemen must go, probably within four years.

The new coalition to govern this island republic in the North Atlantic appears convinced that Iceland should remain a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but that foreign servicemen should not be stationed here during peacetime.

The base 30 miles southwest of Reykjavik, and the stationing of American naval personnel there are authorized by a U.S.-Icelandic defense pact under NATO auspices.

The base has been operating since 1951. Located nearly halfway between New York and Moscow, it tracks Soviet plane and ship movements in the North Atlantic. The Russians have been pressuring the Icelandic Government for some time to pull out of NATO, or at least to close the base.

The new coalition under Premier-Elect Olafur Johannesson controls 32 of the parliament's 60 seats, including 17 Progressives, 10 members of the Communist People's Alliance and five of the Liberal Left party. Johannesson leads the Progressive party.

It is likely that the Cabinet will be made up of three Progressives, two Communists and two Liberal Left.

Plan Resurfacing On Turnpike Road

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas Turnpike Authority plans to start resurfacing all four lanes of the toll road between El Dorado and the east Wichita interchange today.

A two-inch overlay on the 16-mile stretch was delayed in June by inclement weather and difficulty in getting materials, a spokesman said.

Two more resurfacing projects are planned by the authority this summer. One is on 16 miles of the southbound lanes from Wellington south.

Disney Interrupts Terrain

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Towering over the quiet, flat farmlands of central Florida is the mammoth Walt Disney World, newest showpiece of a multi-million-dollar empire built on a scraggly church mouse named Mickey.
Even before the gates are opened, urban areas for 100 miles are gearing up, expecting a spillover tourist bonanza. Promoters predict 10 million visitors the first year.
But many retirees and farmers in the area are dreading the opening. They foresee the ruination of their unspoiled rural sectors.
And gold-mine vacation spots, like Miami, are worried, fearing a drop in business and convention trade.
Sun glints from golden turrets on a medieval castle commanding the Disney theme park. Beneath, on Cinderella's balcony, hangs a huge sign: "Remember October 1."
The sign is a reminder to work crews that the opening of the 27,500-acre vacation center is only a few months away.
In the park, elephants and rhinos guard a croc-infested jungle river... a giant oak supports the signal lanterns of Minuteman scouts... ghosts primp for ghoulish merriment in the Haunted Mansion... submarines plunge to the depths of sunken galleons... and the moon is only a three-minute ride away.
"What Walt liked most was the project he was going to build next year... but this was his baby," said Joe Fowler, a retired Navy rear admiral who heads construction and engineering for Walt Disney Productions. They picked the site together, 15 miles from Orlando in Florida's rich citrus belt.
What will open in October is Disneyland East, but more. On the site will be five hotels, a three-mile monorail to speed guests from parking lots or overnight lodgings, two 18-hole golf courses, a mile-wide man-made lagoon for sailing, skiing, dunking or paddling, campgrounds and a riding stable.
Also a pet hotel and eventually a baby-sitting service to entertain Junior while his parents trip off on an overnight jaunt to the nearby Caribbean islands.

Unlike Disneyland in California, Disney World has underground passage for employees for quick access to any part of the park without bumping into crowds. "That was something we learned from our earlier construction," said Charley Ridgway, a company official.
They found, too, crowds waiting in long lines for an attraction are easily bored. They plan wandering skits to entertain them.
Admission and ride prices are comparable to the Anaheim, Calif. counterpart. A family of four would easily spend $20-25 a day in the park, excluding meals and lodgings.
General admission to the theme park will be $3.50 for an adult, $2.50 for teen-agers or up to 17 years old and $1.00 for youngsters. A seven-ride attraction book that includes admission is $4.75 for an adult, $4.25 for teen-agers and $3.75 for children. An eleven-ticket book is $1 more.
Interstate 4, a superhighway which cuts across central Florida linking both coasts, leads to the main gate of Disney World.
Critics fear it won't be large enough to handle swelling crowds, even though the park has an on-site, five-mile entrance road leading from the highway. They envision major jams at exist ramps, bottlenecks and traffic. The state plans to widen I-4, but not immediately.
Kissimmee is the closest city, only seven miles from the Disney gate. Large cattle spreads around the city give testimony to its distinction once as a flourishing cow capital. In later years retirees have been attracted to the easy pace, serene surrounding and low prices.
The city is growing. Construction workers have moved in. Taxes went up. Land values soared.
Some of the Kissimmee residents are disgruntled at higher prices and more cramped quarters.
Yet more metropolitan areas, like Tampa, Orlando and Lakeland, are eagerly preparing for a tourist boom. Lakeland plans to construct a coliseum; Tampa has invested $80 million in a new air terminal, hoping to help attract a high-speed transportation link to the Disney site, 80 miles east.

The Contemporary Hotel, a futuristic A-form structure, and the Polynesian Hotel, with its island atmosphere, are expected to be ready opening day with about 1,500 rooms. Three others — Persian, Venetian and Asian — will come later.
A family of four would pay between $22-$40 for an overnight stay. That's the room fee and a single would cost the same, Disney people say.

Lawyer s 'Invade' London

LONDON (AP) — Fifteen thousand Americans are descending on London for "the biggest American peacetime invasion anywhere"—the second half of the American Bar Association's annual convention.
Lawyers, wives and children are pouring into 75 hotels booked years in advance. The week-long meeting opens Wednesday, continuing the ABA's 94th annual meeting that began in New York July 1.
Hotels are stocking up on such things as orange juice and extra copies of The Wall Street Journal.
Everything from a Chicago computer to an ex-diplomat named Sir Frederick Everson have been put to work handling arrangements.
"It's the biggest thing I've ever handled," says Sir Frederick.
The ABA meeting headquarters at the Grosvenor House Hotel, between the U.S. Embassy and Hyde Park, includes a reception area providing advice on renting cars, riding subways, booking flights and arranging for hostesses to guide lawyers' wives on shopping tours.
While judges from Florida and Idaho ask a miniskirted tourist guide which pubs to visit, ladies called "English Roses" answer their wives' questions about what to wear at a Buckingham Palace garden party.
When garden partying with the queen, the English Roses advise, wear hats and gloves and never pants suits.
The staff at Grosvenor House has been specially trained to understand American idioms like "last name" instead of the British "surname," and "first floor" instead of the British "ground floor."

"Headwaiters have been advised which brands of Scotch Americans prefer," says Mike Holland, the hotel's front office and reservations manager. "We've been planning for this for eight years."
ABA delegates and their families will occupy 600 of the hotel's 816 beds. The hotel opened a new restaurant Monday, and mailroom workers and telex operators have been added.
Expected to spend at least $2.5 million during their one-week stay, the Americans are arriving in dozens of chartered flights from across America. Six hundred delegates and their families, including U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his wife Martha, disembark tonight at Southampton from the liner Queen Elizabeth 2.

Wasted Efforts Claimed By Man

DETROIT (AP) — A judge told William Stewart Rawls it wasn't worth the city's time and money to prosecute him then pulled $10 from his wallet to pay Rawls' bus fare back to Cleveland.
Rawls, 35, in Detroit since June 30, had tried to get money from Traveler's Aid Society and county welfare, said Recorder's Court Judge Thomas L. Poindexter.
Five days ago Rawls was charged with possession of dangerous drugs, some sleeping pills.
In court Monday, Poindexter told Rawls, "To proceed against you would be necessary for the court to provide you a lawyer, which would cost $200. It is in the best interest of the city to see that your case is dismissed and you're sent back to Cleveland."

Convention Site Pressure Applied

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon favors San Diego, but television network officials would just as soon have the 1972 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach, says communications director Herbert Kelin.
Kelin says network executives are pressuring the GOP site selection committee to hold the convention at Miami Beach because that's where the Democrats will have their convention. Equipment would not have to be shifted.
MOUNTAIN CHEF
BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Helmut Rothermel likes to work in high places. He's the head chef at the inn here overlooking the Hudson river. In 1964 he was a chef in the tallest restaurant at the New York World's Fair.

Pests Are Bugging Wheels of Justice

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Fleas and lice are bugging Montgomery County officials these days and lousing up the wheels of justice. Fumigators can't seem to squash the problem.
"They have been here three or four times in the past couple of weeks," said Howard Smith, Circuit Court clerk. "I guess they're just not using the right spray."
During one recent trial in the county courthouse, a jury foreman asked to speak to the judge during a trial. The judge said such communications should be by note.

The judge read the note, smiled and said: "The jury informs me that we are a little lousy around here."
BAN ON GEOLOGISTS
STANTON, Mo. (AP) — Geology students have been ruled out as guides at Meramec Caverns on US 66 here.
"They are too technical when they conduct tours," says cave director Lester B. Dill. "Tourists would prefer to hear about how Jesse James used the cave to elude the law. I'll hire geology students for other duties here but not as guides."

New Drought Creates Modern Uneasiness Through Arid Southwest

DALHART, Tex. (AP) — There is a grim humor about drought and hardship among the men who farm this old Dust Bowl area where 35 years ago great black clouds ripped billions of tons of topsoil from the plains.

Cowards, they say, never settled here; the weak never survived.

But talking today to these men, now struggling against the worst drought in the Southwest since the mid-1950s, you sense an uneasiness, an undertone of fear.

The farmers, those who cannot irrigate, talk more of past droughts than this one, recalling how, eventually, the good rains finally came and made the wheat and milo fields productive again.

The point is made. This drought too will end. But the question is will it end in time to prevent massive crop failures this year.

So far, that's strictly the farmer's problem. But if the drought continues, and expands outside those areas of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas already stricken, the city consumer soon will share his burden.

In addition to the wheat and milo farmers, the giant cattle industry of the area is in dire need of relief. Sustained rains could bring it, but if the rains don't come, lack of grass for breeding herds could force wholesale slaughter.

That would mean, at first, surplus meat and lower prices for consumers. Later, because ranchers had fewer cows, it would bring beef shortages, and soaring prices.

Nothing like this has happened yet, but cattlemen insist the Southwest is on the verge of such a catastrophe, and marketing experts back them up.

Drought is only part of the story. Another fact is lack of credit in a tight money market to meet the financial demands of modern agriculture; demands complicated by inflation that has the farmer caught in a crunch between rising operating costs and stagnant prices.

Nixon administration experts say inflation is the biggest enemy, and there is evidence that this is so. But its impact is multiplied a hundred-fold by drought. Bills for feed, seed, fertilizer, water, land payments and equipment continue whether it rains or not.

To some, like Harold H.

Hogue, neither the drought nor tight credit are critical problems. He farms 12,000 acres in the Panhandle, Hogue has erected defenses against both.

Hogue said his multi-million-dollar investment returns only 2.5 per cent in a years time, less than half of what he could get by investing in savings and loan securities.

"If I had to pay for it all with borrowed money, I wouldn't make it today," Hogue said. "Even in a good year I can expect to make only three to four per cent on what I have."

And there is the crux of the problem for thousands of farmers, including many large commercial operators. As a whole, farmers operate on borrowed capital, betting a loan in the spring on a bumper crop in the fall. These are the men on the brink of failure.

The drought in the Southwest was six months old before the plight of the area's farmers and ranchers gained national publicity.

President Nixon focused public attention on the problem when he ordered emergency government relief last April.

Since then, the federal government has extended aid through a variety of programs, including loans by the Farmers Home Administration and sales of government-owned feed to cattlemen at reduced prices.

The universal question among farmers, in good times and bad, is why can't the government provide larger pools of credit in local or regional areas so they can borrow what they need to survive when local conditions force the banks to get tight?

Various proposals for making more farm credit available are under consideration in Congress. Bankers and cooperative lending agencies give the same reply to the farmer's question:

Money is tight, but we generally take care of our good customers, the people who are good managers.

So far, the Southwest drought has not spread into the vast areas held by sun and dust in the 1950s or the '30s.

But the fear that it might happen is very real. Dry weather stresses already have shown up in small areas of Colorado and Kansas. No region in Texas since last fall has received much more than half its normal rainfall. In areas where 2 inches of rain usually fall in a year, the rate is as low as two or three.
